VOL. 51. VICTORIA, B. C., SATURDAY, JUNE 10, 1911. NO. 135.

MEREDITH NAMES HIS OWN ENGINEER

SURVEY PARTIES TO BE ORGANIZED AT ONCE

City Barrister is Abolished From the Calender of Civic Posts

All idea of Hancock and Barham being employed in conjunction with Wynn Meredith to carry out the Sooke lake water scheme for the city of Victoria was dissipated last night, when it was reported to the city council that Mr. Meredith had already commenced his duties by appointing F. Carpenter, with whom he was associated in the B. C. Electric Company's work at the Jordan river power plant as engineer of construction, and also that offices for the executive and other work have been opened over the Drake Hardware Company on Douglas street. Exit the Barham-Hancock combination! The field staff will be mustered almost immediately by Mr. Meredith and the work on the surveys will be commenced without delay.

The position of city barrister, which has been held for several years by W. J. Taylor, K.C., of the firm of Eberts and Taylor, one of the foremost lawyers in this province, will be abolished. This decision was arrived at by the council last night amending the by-law which governs the legal department of the city. In future, in the event of the city solicitor requiring assistance, he may do so at his own discretion—with the mayor as umpire. The position of barrister was worth $1,200 a year to Mr. Taylor. The sum of $5,000 set aside in the estimates will meet the cost of engaging counsel during the year.

The expropriation of the Potter property on Chambers street was also considered. This particular piece of property, known as the Lion saloon, and the adjoining land, amounting in all to about seven acres, will be transformed into corporation yards. The sum of $40,000 was placed in the estimates anent its prospective purchase. It is expected, however, that a considerable portion of the purchase price will be met by the money obtained from the sale of other corporation lots, including the present pipe yard on Pandora avenue.

A request for $600, or, as it was stated in the letter, a grant similar to that of last year, was received from the secretary-treasurer of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club toward the fund which is necessary to successful carrying out of the forthcoming international regatta to be held here next month. The matter is being considered.

Band concerts in the city parks will be plentiful this year, as the council has adopted the report of Ald. Humber, which recommends that forty concerts be given in the city parks, twenty by the Fifth Regiment band, ten by the City band and ten by the Boy Scouts' band, the entire series to require the expenditure of $2,500.

The report of the city engineer on the cost of maintenance of boulevards was submitted and the following schedule of per foot frontage rates which it recommended was adopted for the future: Four feet in width, 4 cents per front foot; six feet, 4½ cents; eight feet, 6 cents; ten feet, 7½ cents; twelve feet, 9 cents; fourteen feet 10½ cents; sixteen feet, 12 cents; eighteen feet, 13 cents; twenty feet, 14 cents; twenty-two feet, 15 cents; twenty-four feet and over, 16 cents.

TO BE SEPARATED FROM THE CHURCH

Presbyterian General Assembly Approves Proposal Regarding Queen's University

Ottawa, June 10.—Queen's University, Kingston is to separate from the Presbyterian Church of Canada. After a discussion yesterday the Presbyterian General Assembly approved of the recommendation of the board of trustees to that effect. The vote stood 132 to 79, but later it was made unanimous and almost without exception there was a general satisfaction that the vexed question that has dragged its devious course over a decade has been settled.

The next step will be for the assembly to appoint a committee to act with a committee to be named by the board of trustees to co-operate in securing the required legislation to make the change proposed. It is possible the matters can be adjusted so that a bill may be introduced in the present session of parliament.

The report of the foreign mission committee suggested that the Dominion government should expend part of the $500 head tax on Chinese immigrants for their education.

BREAD MERGER.

Toronto, June 10.—A bread merger has been completed which included the three largest bakeries in Toronto, one in Winnipeg and two in Montreal.

TWO MEN FALL TO THEIR DEATH

KILLED IN AIRSHIP ACCIDENT IN GERMANY

Monoplane, With Pilot and Mechanic, Drops Nearly Seven Thousand Feet

Johannesthal, Germany, June 10.—Herr Schendel, who on Tuesday established a German altitude record of 6,594 feet in an aeroplane, fell last evening with his mechanic, Voss, and both were instantly killed.

Schendel was trying to reach the world's altitude record with a passenger. The aviator, who was practically a beginner, rose in a Dorner monoplane and had reached a height of 6,655 feet, when the monoplane assumed a vertical position and it is believed that Schendel was trying to descend to earth with his motor shut off. So great was the velocity of the fall that the prow of the machine was buried in the earth. The bodies of Schendel and Voss were frightfully mangled.

Preparing For Race.

Berlin, June 10.—The weather conditions are not propitious for the start of the German aviation race, which is set for 5 o'clock to-morrow morning. Violent winds prevail this afternoon. The railroads extending into the suburbs are preparing for an enormous traffic during the early hours of to-morrow. Special trains will begin to arrive at 3 o'clock.

Along with the great interest attracted by the contest, there is a feeling of deep depression because of the fatal accident when Schendel, holder of the German altitude record, fell from a height of 6,655 feet and with his mechanic, Voss, was killed. Schendel had been the favorite for the big race and was considered one of the most formidable competitors. The majority of the competitors will start. A novel introduction into the contest is the privilege granted the aviators to enter several aeroplanes, which may be changeably according to weather, or if accidents are met with. The race is under the auspices of the Berliner Zeitung Ambimittag, and the total prizes amount to $100,000, including $1,000 offered by the Prussian ministry of war. The flight will begin and end at Berlin, the circuit course covering a distance of 1,164 miles. It is expected that about 25 aviators will start. These include the well-known German airmen Lindpainter, Hirth, Jeannin, Thelen and Weinzires.

STORMY WEATHER DELAYS AVIATORS

German Birdman Makes Five Attempts to Start From Rome but Fails

Rome, June 10.—Stormy weather to-day caused three of the aviators who have reached Rome in the Paris-Rome-Turin race to abandon the contemplated start on the final leg of the aerial journey. The schedule calls for a concluding flight of 391 miles, taking the contestants first from Rome to Florence for an official stop, then over the Appenines to Bologna, another official stop, and thence to Turin.

The crossing of the mountain peaks calls for the most daring exploit of the whole 1,300 miles of the course and great interest in this test had been aroused. Throngs were early at the aerodrome to see the flyers get away. The French aviators gave up hope for a start. Frey, the German aviator, was more determined and made five attempts to get into the air, each time being compelled to descend. Finally, on a report that a strong wind was blowing over the Appenines, he too decided to quit.

Vidart, the fourth contestant who has reached here, did not appear and has not announced his future plans.

The competitors remaining in the race have until June 15 to arrive at Turin.

VACCINATION COMPULSORY.

Montreal, June 10.—As a result of several smallpox cases which have been found in Montreal, the city has decided to enforce compulsory vaccination, and with this end in view, a special by-law will be submitted by adoption at next Monday's meeting of the city council. The by-law provides fines for those who cannot prove that they have been vaccinated within seven years, and exempts only those who have undergone the disease or who are physically unfit to be vaccinated.

COKE FOR GRANBY SMELTER.

Grand Forks, June 10.—Eighteen cars of Pennsylvania coke arrived at the Granby smelter yesterday afternoon. Preparations are being made for the blowing in of a few furnaces the first of next week. Some hundred and fifty cars of eastern coke are now on the way here.

SYNDICATE HAS OPTION ON BULLION CLAIMS

Guggenheims Offer to Sell Vast Hydraulic Property for $1,500,000

Barkerville, B. C., June 10.—A London syndicate represented here by L. A. Bonner has secured an option on the vast hydraulic mining claims at Bullion, owned by the Guggenheims and formerly vested in a company of which Sir Wm. Van Horne and Sir Thomas Shaughnessy were prominent shareholders. J. B. Hobson, a prominent mining man of Victoria, was manager for many years and installed a large plant which was very productive during seasons when water was plentiful.

When control passed to the Guggenheims plans for enlarging the plant and extending the ditches to a lake to ensure a water supply independent of weather conditions were prepared and several hundred thousands of dollars were expended in development work. The Guggenheims, however, stopped the work suddenly two years ago and things have been at a standstill ever since.

The ground was thoroughly tested before the Guggenheims acquired a controlling interest. It is located on the Quesnel river. Experts representing the London syndicate are expected here shortly to report on the proposition. It is said that the price mentioned in the option is over $1,500,000.

WINNIPEG POLICE CHIEF RESIGNS

J. C. McRae Will Retire After Serving City for Thirty Years

Winnipeg, June 10.—J. C. Rae, who has been chief of the Winnipeg police force for the past thirty years, will retire to private life July 31, on which date he will have completed his thirtieth year of service. His resignation, which has been handed in frequently during the last five years and always refused by the police commission, was again presented and acting Mayor Harvey, in accepting the resignation of the chief expressed regret and seriously doubted their ability to find his equal. The chief retires on a superannuation of $2,485. He is 52 years of age.

KILLED BY EXPLOSION.

Vancouver, June 10.—The story of the explosion in South Vancouver on Wednesday last in which William Wilson lost his life was told to a coroner's jury yesterday afternoon. The accident took place on Fifty Sixth Avenue where a gang of men was employed clearing land for the municipality.

According to the evidence, Wilson, who was about 350 feet away from the others, was trying to take the top off a box of percussion caps when they exploded, tearing one leg off and shattering an arm. The deceased was sitting down at the time.

MINING DISPUTE IN CROW'S NEST PASS

Conciliation Board Meets Operators and Miners in Private Session

Coleman, Alta., June 10.—Dr. C. W. Gordon, chairman of the conciliation board which is endeavoring to effect a settlement of the coal miners' strike in the Crow's Nest Pass district, called the committees of the two parties to the dispute to meet the board in secret session yesterday. An attempt is being made to have both sides state explicitly the conditions upon which they are willing to resume operations in the mines.

The meeting of the board with the two committees was delayed pending the arrival of F. B. Hayes of Indianapolis, vice-president of the United Mine Workers of America. Mr. Hayes was surprised at the reception accorded him by the mine workers. The brass band and all the miners in the camp were at the station to meet their official. He was escorted to the miners' hall and after the audience had been settled, Mr. Purcell of the international board introduced him to the big audience. On the platform were the officers of the district and the members of the conciliation board.

Mr. Hayes made a very brief speech, stating emphatically to the mine workers of the district that the international organization was with them in their contest for better conditions and pay. He spoke of the improvements already attained through organized effort, comparing conditions in unorganized districts with those where the unions were organized, saying that statistics prove that the death rate was much lower in organized camps than in unorganized districts and that he in his short life had witnessed an increase in wages of miners of fully 100 per cent. and a reduction of hours of labor from fourteen to eight hours.

Dr. Gordon, as chairman of the conciliation board, briefly welcomed Mr. Hayes to the town and spoke in a happy vein of the cordial relations existing between the two countries represented by these officials of the great labor organizations.

FOURTEEN MINERS KILLED IN RIOTS

Clashes Between Strikers and Police in Mexico—Smelter Employees at Work

Torreon, Mexico, June 10.—A report from Matehuela, where the miners are striking, is that fourteen have been killed in riots. The strike at the Asarco smelter has been ended, the strikers receding from their demand for higher wages. The strike against the American Smelting & Refining Company at Velardena is still on.

GRANT TO HOSPITAL.

Ottawa, June 10.—An order-in-council has been passed making a free grant to Calary General hospital of slightly less than 14 acres of land for which application was made some time ago on behalf of the hospital.

Vancouver, June 10.—Swan Loon was run over and killed by a B. C. electric car in Fairview early this morning. Deceased came from Sweden.

STRIKE RIOT AT CLEVELAND

GARMENT WORKERS HURT IN FIGHT WITH POLICE

Two Alleged Labor "Gun Men" Fight Duel at Chicago—Both May Die

Cleveland, O., June 10.—Fear of a repetition of the disturbances late yesterday, when a clash between striking garment makers and a squad of policemen, resulted in a striker being shot, a patrolman knifed, and a score of men and women cut and bruised, caused the police to take extra precautions to-day to control the situation. Acting Chief of Police Rowe this morning detailed 100 extra policemen to the districts picketed by strikers.

The trouble yesterday took place at the H. Black Company's plant, at which the pickets hooted and jeered the patrolmen until the latter retaliated by calling a patrol wagon and taking half a dozen of their tormentors to the central police station. Among these were Josephine Casey of Chicago, who announced herself as a national organizer. It was announced this morning that outside contractors and their helpers to the number of 350 will walk out some time to-day.

A man, whose name is not known, was shot twice, once just below the heart and once in the groin, in a quarrel of striking garment workers at the H. Black Company's plant to-day, and may die. Benjamin Aquina, 1706 Orange avenue, was arrested. A crowd of pickets is said to have attempted to prevent Aquina from flourishing a gun in

WILL RUSH WORK ON BRANCH LINE

Survey of Calgary-Lethbridge-Coutts Road is Being Hurried Forward

Lethbridge, June 10. — The Grand Trunk Pacific survey of the Calgary-Lethbridge-Coutts line is being rapidly hurried to completion. Entrance to Lethbridge from the south will be over the grade abandoned by the C. P. R. when the MacLeod cutoff was constructed. Work of construction will start at Calgary and Coutts at the same time, material for the southern part being brought over the Great Northern. According to General Manager Chamberlin the line will be rushed to a finish and probably be operating by next year.

CROP PROSPECTS BRIGHT.

Lethbridge, June 10.—Crop experts who have investigated the situation between Stirling and Coutts say that 1,825,000 bushels will be marketed there this year. Five years ago there was not a bushel of wheat raised in the entire surrounding territory, except on a little irrigated land around Stirling.

London, June 10.—Bullion amounting to £29,000 was taken into the Bank of England and £75,000 was taken out for shipment to South Africa.

TAFT OPPOSED TO ROOT AMENDMENT

MESSAGE TO BOSTON CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Senator Smoot Expects Vote Will Be Taken on Reciprocity Bill on July 16

Boston, Mass., June 10.—"I am opposed to the Root amendment of the Canadian reciprocity bill, and am obliged to admit that its adoption is not a violation of the agreement made with Canada. My views on the subject are contained in my speech at Chicago on June 3."

That is what President Taft telegraphed the Boston Chamber of Commerce to-day, after he had read the following telegram sent him by that body: "Considerable vagueness here in reference to your attitude regarding the Root amendment. We wish you would send the chamber an explicit statement of your position in order that we may support you. Are you opposed to the Root amendment?"

Vote Early in July.

Washington, D. C., June 10.—"It is my private opinion that we will have a vote on the reciprocity bill July 16," said Senator Smoot of Utah, after a talk with President Taft at the White House to-day. "The bill will pass and congress will adjourn with all business out of the way, I believe, about July 27."

Senator Smoot said that the Root amendment to the reciprocity bill would not invalidate the agreement. He declared, on the other hand, that the amendment would perfect the pact and that with the amendment attached the bill before congress was in every detail like the bill before the Canadian parliament.

"The Root amendment," said the senator, "may not pass. The vote will be close. It is the only amendment for which I shall vote and the only one which will have a chance."

MAY FACE MURDER CHARGE.

Montreal, June 10.—A fight that may [illegible] murder trial took place at 447 [illegible] and in [illegible] when [illegible] Gadieux street this afternoon [illegible] Pierre St. Denis threw his landlady down-stairs. She is at the General hospital and is not likely to recover. St. Denis had been drinking all night and when she reproved him for it he struck her, then threw her down-stairs. He drew a knife and ran at her again. A policeman who was passing stopped him as he raised his hand to strike.

NEW HOT WEATHER RECORD AT CHICAGO

Two Deaths and Many Cases of Prostrations Reported to the Police

Chicago, June 10.—What has come to be almost a daily occurance—the establishment of a new hot weather record for that part of the year previous to July—was effected to-day when at 10:30 a. m., the government thermometer indicated 94 degrees. By that hour one death and several prostrations had been reported to the police, work in many downtown offices was abandoned for the day, and street gangs of workmen had been laid off in view of the early morning prediction of forecaster that a new record of even 100 degrees might be expected. Temperatures given as official by the Chicago bureau are misleading, since they are taken at the top of the Federal Building, where whatever effect Lake Michigan has on cooling the air may be felt. Down at the street level thermometers always register from three to five degrees higher than that on the roof.

By noon the temperature went up to 95 and the number of cases of more acute suffering had grown until the police list showed two dead and nine in a critical condition from prostrations. Both the dead were women.

Perhaps the most curious freak of the record-breaking performance of the mercury yesterday occurred in a big down-town department store just before closing time. The automatic sprinkler system in the store suddenly opened its flood gates and began to work energetically as if the store had been on fire. For twenty minutes the device sprinkled away, while watchmen raced about looking for stop-cocks. The sprinkler was gauged to go into action at 143 degrees or higher, while the temperature on the street level reached a maximum of only 101 degrees.

BODY RECOVERED.

Revelstoke, B. C., June 10.—The body of Duncan Wilkins, the man who on Saturday night, May 20, stepped from the bridge at Sicamous into the lake, was discovered yesterday at the back of the Sicamous hotel, where it had been washed up by the water. The remains were brought to this city to-day, where interment will take place.

REHEARSAL FOR THE CORONATION

PRINCIPAL PARTICIPANTS COACHED IN CEREMONY

Route of Royal Procession Already Presents Gala Appearance

London, June 10.—The coronation ceremony was rehearsed yesterday in the Abbey church of St. Peter, Westminster, many of the principal participants being coached in the roles which they will have to fill June 22, the day on which King George will be crowned. The entry to the abbey, the procession up to the altar and the religious services all were rehearsed, the Archbishop of Canterbury at appropriate moments performing the actions of crowning and annointing with oil those representing King George and Queen Mary. The crowns on this occasion were pieces of pasteboard.

Passing this morning along the streets of the coronation route one almost fancies the great event was due Monday instead of twelve days hence. Huge stands cover every vacant inch around Parliament Square, front every government building and hide every church, even Westminster Abbey itself, so that little more than the towers and the tops of buttresses are visible from the street. All these are complete from floors to roofs. The elaborate annex to the abbey, where the King and Queen will robe and unrobe, is so skilfully devised that it looks almost as though it formed part of the venerable structure which Edward the Confessor created eight centuries ago.

Majestic Whitehall is gay as never before, with rows of tall white and gold columns festooned with white and red roses which rise from the beautiful arches of Ontario and New Zealand.

The Canadian troops, who arrived from Liverpool last night to swell the already unprecedented numbers of Canadian visitors, declare themselves more than delighted with the reception both at Liverpool and London. Colonel McLean says the greeting was the most magnificent he has ever seen and was most warmly appreciated by every Canadian. It would inspire every man of the volunteers [illegible] and regulars to attain the highest efficiency in the spirit of General French's recent report.

The Royal Northwest Mounted Police, who arrived at the London dock yesterday, were also heartily cheered by crowds in the poorer quarters through which they marched to their quarters at Chelsea.

To-morrow Lieut. Graham and Midshipman Victor Brodeur will arrive with 135 men of the Canadian naval contingent.

RUN DOWN BY TRAIN.

Galt, June 10.—As he was walking along the G. T. R. tracks four miles south of Galt this morning James Clark of Branston, age 59, was run down by a train and instantly killed.

FURNITURE FACTORY BURNED.

Orangeville, June 10.—The big three storey brick factory of the Hurndale Novelty Furniture Co. here was destroyed by fire early this morning, loss $60,000.

PRINCE NOW KNIGHT OF THE GARTER

King's Son Invested With Insignia of the Order at Windsor Castle

London, June 10.—The first of the great state functions associated with the coronation of King George was witnessed to-day at Windsor Castle, where the Prince of Wales was invested with the insignia of the order of the Garter. The elaborate ceremonial dating from the institution of the order 560 years ago, was conducted in the throne room. King George and Queen Mary with the knights of the order, attended in gorgeous robes and full insignia of the order. Following the investiture a brief religious service was held at St. George's chapel and the King and Knights then returned in procession to the castle.

The ceremony was private, but the boys from Eton, civic authorities of Windsor, and a few privileged ones were permitted to view the procession.

R. L. BORDEN'S TOUR.

Ottawa, June 10.—It is announced that in addition to Andrew Broder, member for Dundas, R. L. Borden will be accompanied on his western trip by T. W. Crothers, of West Elgin, and Col. Hugh Clark, Conservative member for Centre Bruce, in the Ontario legislature. George H. Perley, M. P. for Argenteuil, will also go along, but will take but little part in the speaking.

The opposition leader leaves for Winnipeg at midnight on Monday.

THREE HUNDRED CHINESE WERE SLAIN

China Will Demand Indemnity From Mexico—Reports on Massacre at Torreon

Mexico City, June 10.—An indemnity of twelve million pesos will be demanded of Mexico by the Chinese government for the slaughter of Chinese subjects in Torreon. The demand will be backed up by a cruiser, which is on the way to Mexican west coast ports.

Three investigators returned yesterday from Torreon and placed in the hands of Shung Hai Sun, charge d'affaires of the Chinese legation, a detailed report. This shows that 303 Chinese were killed, and that besides a bank and club house, 59 places of business were wrecked. In addition to the indemnity, an apology for insult to the Chinese flag is demanded; also that aid be extended to the destitute families of the victims and that the guilty be punished; and that the constitutional guarantee of protection of Chinese lives and property be made effective.

Of the twelve million pesos indemnity, two million is for property damaged and the remainder for the loss of lives.

Commenting upon the matter, Mr. Shung said that owing to the savage manner in which the Chinese were killed, there has been no attempt by his nation to fix the amount of the indemnity by prescribed methods.

The report made by the investigators goes back to the anti-foreign excitement starting on September 16, Mexico's centennial anniversary, when at a public meeting in Torreon the "killing of the Spaniards first, and then the Chinese" was advocated by a speaker.

In the detailed report, the Torreon massacre is laid at the door of both sides in the revolution. It says the federals gave no notice that they were going to evacuate the city after being hopelessly beaten, and when ruffians knew the soldiers had gone they began an anti-Chinese demonstration, killing many. Then the rebels entered the city and the carnage was given impetus. The federals are blamed for not giving notice that they intended evacuating, and the rebels for joining the massacre.

The report recited tale after tale of barborous slaughter stories of how victims' arms and legs were tied to horses and their bodies torn asunder; heads cut off and savagely rolled about the streets as the Mexicans grinned in glee; bodies cut into small bits and scattered about the streets, and dead and half dead Chinese dragged about the town at ends of ropes attached to horses.

Blood dripping through the floor in the Chinese bank was terrible evidence of the murder of 25 men in the second story.

An American woman saved the life of one Chinese boy by throwing her arms about his neck as the Mexicans were about to stab him, and a Mexican girl protected nine Chinese in her home after her father had been shot dead before her eyes when he protested that he was not harboring any Orientals.

The report says this slaughter kept up until a party of business men, headed by the American consul, demanded of the rebel leader that the massacre be stopped. It was stopped, but 200 Orientals left were put in jail for safety. There the prison guards took all of their money and most of their clothes, the report says.

All the Chinese not killed, the report further says, were saved from starvation only by the Red Cross, the American consul and foreign banks.

New War Party.

Mexicali, L. C., Mex., June 10.—Mexicans opposed to the socialist liberales, or Magonistas, who have been occupying this town since last January, suddenly formed a war party, shot one of the socialist insurrectos and captured 22 more.

The new war force, which is composed of Maderistas and adherents of the old federal regime, is commanded by Senor Guyago, said to have been formerly a refugee at Calexico, Col., just across the border. He organized his army and took possession of the ranch house of the California Land & Cattle Company at Packard, four miles southeast.

The first intimation that the insurrecto garrison of Mexicali had of impending trouble was when they sent out a foraging party consisting of two Mexicans and a negro deserter from the United States army. The negro was killed and his two companions made prisoners.

Francisco Quijada, commander of the rebel garrison, sent a party of 20 to rescue the two, and these were all captured. A third party was then dispatched, but after a reconnaissance it returned with word that Guyago's force was too strong to be attacked in the open.

Federals Executed.

Tucson, Ariz., June 10.—Twenty-five members of the party of former Governor Diego Redo of Sinaloa, who were escorted across the American line on their arrival at Nogales and warned not to return to Mexico, reported that Gen. Morales, brother-in-law of Redo and commandant at Culiacan, and other federal officers were executed by the insurrectors at Culiacan.

REPAIRING THE MINNESOTA.

Seattle, Wash., June 9.—Repairs to the big Hill liner Minnesoto, which broke one of her shafts while on her last voyage from the Orient to Seattle, are nearing completion. The Minnesota will sail on June 19. Owing to the fast work done on the vessel she will miss only one voyage.

SODA FOUNTAINS ON TRAINS.

Toronto, June 9.—The Canadian Pacific Railway is considering installing soda fountains in their transcontinental dining cars. The fountains will be of special design, taking up little room, but large enough to permit of all the various ices and soft drinks being served at any hour of the day. The experiment will be tried on Toronto and Vancouver expresses and the special limited, and if a success the fountains will be introduced on trains on shorter runs.

CAPTURED AFTER A LONG CHASE

Man Wanted at Vancouver on Charge of Embezzlement Taken in Missouri

Vancouver, June 10.—A chase of several thousand miles, up and down and across the continent, ended Thursday on a ranch near the town of Warsaw, Boston county, Missouri, with the arrest of T. C. Lockhurst, who is charged with the embezzelment of some $4,000 from the firm of C. Gardiner Johnson & Co. of Vancouver. Lockhurst is being held at Warsaw for extradition and it is reported that a police official will be sent from Vancouver to bring the man here for trial as soon as arrangements for his extradition are completed.

Lockhurst was well known in insurance circles in Vancouver, he having been manager of the insurance department of C. Gardiner Johnson & Co. Last September he disappeared and when an audit was made of his books the firm lost no time in putting detectives on his trail. The chase was taken up by the Thiel Detective Agency on instructions to follow the man until he was cornered.

From Vancouver Lockhurst's trail led down into Mexico and he zigzagged across the republic. He doubled back to Kansas City and there all trace of him was lost for several months. Finally a clue led the detectives into Missouri and at Warsaw, the county town of Boston county, it was learned that a man answering his description had bought a ranch at Coal Camp, a few miles away. Thursday Lockhurst's ranching operations were interrupted and he is now in the county jail at Warsaw.

WOMEN TO MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION

National Council to Hold Meetings at Port Arthur and Fort William

Port Arthur, Ont., June 10.—The eighteenth annual meeting of the National Council of the Women of Canada will be opened on Wednesday morning, June 14, in the two cities of Thunder Bay—Port Arthur and Fort William.

The local council of the women of West Algoma will entertain for one week women from all parts of the Dominion who will gather to discuss questions and plan enterprises of great national importance. The annual meeting, which will be held in sessions, two each day for six days, with one day, the Saturday which comes between, for play time, and the Sunday for rest, will be equaly divided between the two cities.

The executive committee will meet in secret session on Wednesday. The executive is composed of the officers and all the presidents of affiliated societies. No one else is permitted to attend this first gathering of the workers.

Thursday morning, June 15, the public meetings open, at ten o'clock. The first three days the gathering will be in Trinity church, Port Arthur. The next three days will see a change of scene to Fort William Wesley church.

Friday evening the first evening session will be held. This will be presided over by L. L. Matthews, and the speaker of the evening will be Miss Fitzgibbon, superintendent of the Women's Welcome Hostel, Toronto. Mr. Howells, of the C. N. R. immigration department, will also speak. The subject will be the immigration question as it relates to the women and girls.

Monday evening the second public meeting will be held in Fort William. Rev. Harold King will preside at this meeting, and the subject will be some phase of the child problem. Every day will be filled to the brim with work. The meetings are expected to close June 21.

The twenty-four affiliated local councils will all send delegates, each local council being permitted five delegates with the president, and the fourteen nationally organized societies in federation will all be represented. Among those expected to be present are: Mrs. A. M. Huestis, Mrs. Torrington, Mrs. Gurnett, Miss Fitzgibbon, Toronto; Mrs. W. E. Sanford, Mrs. Graham, London; Prof. Carrie M. Derick, Dr. Ritchie, England; Mrs. Plumptre, Montreal; Mrs. D. M. McLellan, St. John, N. S.; Mrs. Stead, Halifax; Mrs. Day, Victoria, B. C. The federated organizations will be represented by: Mrs. S. Morrison, the I. O. O. F.; Miss A. M. Brown, The King's Daughters; Mrs. Dingham, the Women's Art Association; Dr. Augusta Stowe Gullen, the Canadian Suffrage Association; Dr. Gordon, Peace and Arbitration Society; Mrs. Nordheimer, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire. Ladies of the Maccabees, Victorian Order of Nurses, Aberdeen Association, the Women's Institutes, and the Canadian Society of Superintendents of Training Schools for Nurses will all send representatives.

The officers include: Lady Taylor, of Hamilton, the president; Mrs. Willoughby Cummings, of Toronto; Mrs. O. C. Edwards, McLeod, Alberta; Mrs. Day, Victoria, B. C.; Mrs. Boomer, London, Ont.; Mrs. McEwan, Brandon, Man., vice-presidents; Miss Agnes Riddell, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frost, treasurer.

The local arrangements for entertainment are lavish, but in deference to an expressed desire from the president, Lady Taylor, whose health is not robust, the social functions will not be numerous enough to encroach upon the work and business of the meetings.

At the business session on Thursday morning in Trinity church, Mrs. F. C. Perry, president of the local council of West Algoma, will deliver the address of welcome from West Algoma women. The mayor will extend greetings from the city of Port Arthur. On Monday morning, when the business sessions open in Fort William, Mayor Young will extend the greetings of the city of Fort William.

The business upon the agenda to be taken up at this annual meeting includes many far-reaching and important matters. The question of the flag of the empire being floated constantly from the public schools and public buildings will be taken up. Advertisements will come in for discussion, and the marring of the landscape with billboards will undoubtedly receive some attention. A resolution from the Canadian Suffrage Association in regard to deputations from local councils to parliament will be thoroughly discussed. This question promises to stir up considerable interest, for the National Council is not a unit upon this matter. The question of having a police matron or other woman to accompany girls in assault, etc., trials; upon the resolution that incorrigible offenders be committed to reformatories on indeterminate sentence; a discussion upon peace and arbitration, and what the women of Canada can do to further the cause of peace; and the white slave traffic will be gone into, and important steps taken to work along this line. Some changes will be made in the constitution.

ELUSIVE THEOLOGY.

The fact that during the past three years numerous ministers of various churches have been indicted on charges of heresy and that during the past few weeks such cases have been prominently before both ecclesiastical and civil courts has given the press a few moderate sensations entirely out of the political order. The mind of the public, too, has been turned to a review of the matters under dispute and a widespread interest has been aroused in theological questions which, it is beginning again to be discovered, have never been settled. A theological professor commenting recently upon these events stated that the subscription to a definite creed in the qualifications necessary to secure ordination for the ministry raises, in later life when thinking men labor in the problems of reason, a moral question making it difficult to remain true to the articles of ordination. There must be much truth in this declaration. If it is not so it should be so. It has ever been profound thought that has made heretics and, though heresy is no proof that truth has been found, the testimony of history would seem to warrant that most heretics have, in process of time, turned out to be right.

The science of theology is the most marvellous of all sciences because it has to do with things which are both seen and unseen: things natural and things spiritual. In its fundamental principles it is a fixed science and it has its axiomatic truths as well as any other. But, like every other science, it is progressive and its progress must be clearly determined by the rapidity with which it elucidates its problematical theorems into axiomatic truths. We onine that the existence of God is the only axiomatic theological truth. We grant that conceding this axiom there may be other truths which should be accepted as axiomatic, such for instance as the attributes of deity, but these are only lesser axioms or explanations of the first. It is when we reach the question of the manner and method by which God—using the theologian's term—reveal Himself that theology must become a progressive science and the history of revelation must be submitted to the investigation of allied sciences just as any other history must be put into the crucible of criticism anl submitted to analytical tests. More than this, it is alleged by the theologian himself that God has differing methods of revelation in different ages. The things which the analyst must find out are how much the records of events purporting to be revelations and manifestations of deity are what is claimed for them. To say that any of these is beyond scrutiny and in its earliest or present interpretation is a full expression of the truth is but to beg the question.

Protestantism is to-day the best and most widespread example of heresy the world has ever seen and it is so considered by a church which is many centuries older as years are counted. The various denominations into which Protestantism is split up are, each in its way, irrefutable testimony to the value and defensibility of heresy.

Men may be theologically lost through heresy but we doubt if they can ever be really lost by rejecting theological dogmas, provided they are honest. We do not mean that it matters not what a man believes so long as he is honest. The nearer to absolute truth one's belief the more like truth will be his life but we are unable to see how a life can approximate any advanced degree of truth and righteousness without presenting an indisputable evidence of the perception of truth.

The claim that this or that interpretation of Divine revelation is final has ever been the undoing of theological systems and it may be further alleged that whenever the theological system of a church becomes obsolete its power is gone. That is one reason why we believe the next great revival of spiritual truth will come through the persecution of those who suffer because they bring to the bar of reason and devout judgment every spirit and try it to see whether it be of God or not. All the history of the evolution of truth in the perceptions of men show they have come about in this manner and the times are ripe for another epoch.

In every science there are established rocks of everlasting truth to depart from which is death. But in every science there are also shifting sands, shifted by the tidal currents of the age, and the church built upon these will find its foundations undermined. Nevertheless, under all these shifting sands is the solid rock and the mistake too often made is that men think when they have built upon the sand they are founded on the rock. The wise builder digs about and prods deep before he entrusts his whole theological structure on a sand pile no matter how long it has been unaffected by the currents and tides. Material science makes haste to desert the untenable and because of this it has been called unstable. Its very instability has been its salvation for it has changed its ground when necessary with every fresh demonstration of axiomatic truth. In this it has had an advantage over theological science.

It was no less a person than Jesus of Nazereth who said. "No man putteth new wine into old skins; new wine is put into new bottles." The old skins were good enough and expansive enough to save the wine during the fermenting process of its individual age but it is as true to-day as in the days when Jesus stirred up the hatred of the Jews that if new wine is put into old bottles "both the bottles burst and the wine is lost." This was, and is, a wholly unnecessary calamity.

Nearly every Protestant church to-day is lamenting the fact that the church as an institution and preaching as the delivery of an arousing message has ceased to attract the common people. The reason for this must be obvious and it is not in the place where the churches try to believe it is—that is in the decreasing interest of the masses in genuine religion. It is in the failure of the churches, both in work and message, to meet the craving of hungry souls for a new expression of vital truth. The theological garments of the churches are time-worn, ill-fitting, often uncouth, and, at best less beautiful than the evolution of truth in all other than theological sciences has made possible.

ADULTRATED COAL.

The city of Winnipeg has set an example in the protection of its citizens which is worthy the emulation of every other city and hamlet upon the continent. That example is in having established the practice of analyzing the coal supplied to patrons of the fuel markets and restricting the delivery to only such as measures up to the standard of thermal units in its consumption which has been fixed by the civic authorities. The adulteration of foods had become so unconscionable and dangerous in America that governments have enacted pure food laws the violations of which exposes to penalty. By this means the health of the consumer is in less danger and many of the physical evils incident to the consumption of adulterated food stuffs have been anticipated. Winnipeg we believe is the first Canadian city to afford the consumer of fuel some guarantee that he is obtaining in results what he pays for in theory.

The presence of shale and stone in coal sold is commonly noted, even when the quality otherwise is all that could be desired. The civic regulations in Winnipeg not only obviate this but the quality of the coal itself is made subject to inspection and the inferior carbonates are condemned as such and sold only at the value of their heat producing capability.

Commenting on this excellent regulation the Canadian Municipal Journal says there is no doubt that some time the official examination of coal will be as common as the inspection and analysis of milk, bread, meats and other necessaries of life. We are sure that is such a regulation could be made general it would be an inestimable blessing to the poor whose margin for the luxury of half a ton of slag bought for fuel is a narrow one. It would seem to be one of the most reasonable regulations for the protection of the public that has yet been conceived and, like all other good but simple safeguards, we are surprised that it has not been thought of and applied universally.

The effect of such a regulation if made universal would react injuriously upon no one for it would simply anticipate the trouble at its very source—the stall in the mine—and if no inferior coal could be marketed there would be none loaded into the cars. We hope some philanthropist who is on good terms with the government of the province will induce the honorable the Minister of Mines to enact such legislation in British Columbia.

NOT SENTIMENTAL PREFERENCE

There is an interesting bit of romantic suggestion in an alleged remark made by the only daughter of the German Kaiser who, with the Emperor and Empress, visited Britain recently. It is said that the German princess confided to an English cousin her desire to be "British" and somehow, as these things always will, the confidence leaked out.

It may appear on the surface as if this were a mere expression of sentimental preference and that the young princess had perhaps fallen into one of those early love preferences which, among the more vulgar folk, would be called setting her cap at someone. But the expression is capable of quite another interpretation. The members of royal families are much restricted in their associations, and it is always understood that anything like a love affair must be confined to people of similar rank. Outside of these, sometimes choiceless limitations, there must be no sentiment.

The familiarity of members of royal families, especially if they are of different nations, must be very conventional and restricted to such functions as at best can develop but an impartial acquaintance. Yet even these functions, when taken together with careful and select reading such as princesses sometimes choose, may result in a disposition to make comparisons between the institutions of one's own country and those of another. The traditions of royal families and the folklore of nations or empires is not a pastime study with princesses, but often they are sufficiently gifted with independence and personality to deduce from these the preferences which must be formative in the making of character.

More than this it could not be disputed that, should there be formed an alliance between a daughter of the Emperor and a prince of the English royal family there would be a deeply cordial attachment between the royal persons on the throne. That is, always supposing, that the match had been one of choice and affection rather than one of court arrangement. Even kings and queens have human feelings and the domestic instincts are not robbed of any of their power by the fact of kingship. So that a British preference in the matter of a lover for the German princess may yet become a factor in international relationships that will play an important part in deciding the future of empires.

If the "so-called Canadian flag has no status" what harm can there be in yacht club men flying it whenever they please?

A contemporary remarks that little interest is being taken in the elections in Nova Scotia and predicts that few ballots will be cast. Few ballots in opposition to the Murray government it means. The morning paper with an irrepressible burst of enthusiasm concludes a paragraph on the loyalty of General Botha with the question: "Why, then, should we fear that people of our own blood, cherishing our own traditions, educated in our own sentiments, will be cajoled or frightened into breaking up the Empire?" We never could understand why. Guess we must ask Mr. G. H. Barnard, M. P. He will know even if he doesn't.

Some of the opposition newspapers blame the Dominion government for not passing the reciprocity agreement at once without awaiting the action of the U. S. Senate. They say this delay proves that Canada's fiscal policy is being directed and controlled from Washington. But it is only a month since Conservative papers clear across Canada shouted themselves hoarse cheering Mr. Borden because he had—they said—been successful in obstructing the passing of the bill. The people who have votes in Canada are not afflicted with so short a memory.

Among the most valuable of contributions to the knowledge of Canada are the letters sent home by English residents in British Columbia and appearing occasionally in sections of the British press. We refer wholly to such letters as are written by those who have been long enough in the country to know it and to give just the deft touch to their letters that will appeal to their friends in the Old Country. Among these is one appearing in the Canadian Gazette of London, written by Captain Andrew Hamilton of Victoria and tastefully describing the city and its environs. A part of the letter aptly describes opportunities for local investment.

The Illinois Newspaper Association recently adopted a resolution pledging its members "to refuse to print free of cost any matter carrying an advertising tinge, such as press agent stories, cards from professional persons and similar notices misleading in character." The move is in line with advanced opinion among newspapermen everywhere, says the Bellingham American. In the larger journals of the country it is becoming increasingly difficult for the professional "booster" of selfish interests to "break into print." The impelling motive behind the publishers in refusing to open their columns to the press agent is frankly businesslike. The cost of publishing a newspaper in this era of high wages and high cost of paper makes it necessary that its columns be confined to the publication of news and paid advertising. Moreover, large corporations have come to realize that it is economic waste to attempt to "jimmy a way into print" through the press agent. The more astute are placing themselves frankly before the public through paid advertising space. They find that results can be achieved more speedily, more satisfactorily and a little enhanced cost.

A DENIAL.

To the Editor:—Much indignation is felt here among friends of Captain and Mrs. Sears at the persistence of a rumor that they attended a performance of "The Merry Widow" the evening after the regrettable wreck of the Iroquois.

On behalf of Capt. and Mrs. Sears I wish to state that they did not attend the Victoria theatre on the evening of April 11.

Scholefield, who has recently returned from the convention of the American Library Association at Pasadena, Cal., at which a meeting of the executive of the Pacific Northwest Library association was also held, brings the news that the latter body will hold its 1911 convention here September 4-6. Mr. Scholefield received the distinction of being elected as a member of the council of 25 which is the governing body of the great association. J. T. Jenning chief librarian at Seattle was a visitor for a few hours yesterday with Mr. Scholefield. Mr. Jennings is one of the foremost librarians of the Coast, and has now in his institution 75 assistants. He has just declined an invitation to take charge of the new Public library in Los Angeles.

TEAMSTERS GO BACK ON EMPLOYERS' TERMS

Collapse of the Strike of Drivers, Which Was Largely a Sympathy One

As briefly mentioned in last evening's issue of the Times, the teamsters' strike is over and there is no longer a teamsters' union in this city. About two weeks ago the drivers in three or four local transfer barns walked out in protest against what they claimed was a violation of the agreement between them and their employers.

About fifty men were affected by this dispute directly, but the Monday following the walk-out a general strike of teamsters was declared, in sympathy with those who had protested at first. Their grievance was an alleged failure of the employers to live up to an understanding arranged at the conclusion of a strike which occurred about the first of May. This was, that the men should return to work with a standard ten-hour work day, with overtime pay and recognition of the union. Old conditions were to hold in every other respect.

Under the old terms the drivers received pay for holidays, but for the twenty-fourth their pay was docked in four stables. The result was the unfortunate dispute, which now has ended in the dissolution of the union of teamsters, as every man taken back by the employers must hand in his union card. This rule was agreed to by the Teamowners' Association in session Wednesday night, and yesterday afternoon all the drivers whose places had not been filled were taken back.

BUILDING IN VICTORIA.

British Columbia Capital to Have the Finest Semi-Ready Store in Canada.

On the corner of Douglas and View streets, in Victoria, B. C., a six storey building now being built, and is being rushed to completion for the opening of a new Semi-ready store on the ground floor corner. The store will have one hundred feet of window space, and will be equipped with wardrobes and all the best fixtures for the proper care of fine clothing.

Messrs. Mearns and Fuller, who own the store, have been residents of Victoria for eight and sixteen years, respectively.

W. H. Mearns was in Montreal yesterday, and he says that the present population of Victoria is well over 50,000, and that the city is growing very rapidly. The Grand Trunk Pacific have decided upon a million-dollar tourist hotel; the city is laying thirty-two miles of new sidewalk this year; the British Columbia Electric will spend a million and a helf in street railway extensions; and Vancouver Island, which is trade tributary to Victoria, will be developed in its rich spots within a few years.

"Few people," said Mr. Mearns, "have any idea of the wonderful resources of this great island, with its mild climate and its tropical growth."

Printed programmes of words will be available. The cantata is in twelve parts, representing the Feast of Triumph at Bethlehem, Abigail at Carmel, Saul in Despondency, After the Battle, David and Jonathan, David in Exile, David and the Shepherd Queen, The Carmelite Bride, The Coronation, etc.

LUCK BREAKS WITH MIKE LYNCH'S BOYS

Annis and Thomas Both Wild —Remarkable Features— Victoria's Errors

Thomas and Annis were both wild yesterday, but luck broke with the Tigers and they won by 3 to 2. Every display which a pitcher is capable of performing was marked against Annis. The feature of the game was the put out by Rockenfield and Fisher. The ball took a bad bound and Fisher, seeing he could not get it, tried to put his foot in the way and kicked it squarely into Fisher's hands, retiring the side. Numerous errors were chalked up against the Islanders.

A WORLD'S RECORD.

In the Sussex vs. Notts game at Brighton, Alletson, a young cricketer from Welbeck scored 189 out of 227 in an hour and a half.

Such batting has never before been seen. He made his first 53 in a quarter of an hour, and obtained 105 in seven overs from Leach and Kellick, and by lunch-time had obtained 142 out of 152 in forty minutes—the fastest scoring ever known. He hit 34 and 22 in one over from Killick, 34 in two overs from Leach, and 15 in one over from Robert Relf.

The first 34, which was made up of five 6's and a 4, is a world's record, and even allowing for the fact that the boundaries at Brighton are rather short, it is an extraordinary one. The major part of his runs were made when there was only one wicket to fall. The only mistake Alleston made was when at 29 he put a ball up in the direction of the cover-point which Heygate did not get.

Alletson, who is only 27, and stands over six feet, belongs to the county, for he was born at Welbeck, and learned his cricket with the Tenants' Club, in which the Duke of Portland takes such a big interest. He joined the Notts ground staff in 1905, and for some years has been recognized as a very promising batsman. It is stated the duke promised him £100 when he made a century for his county, and now he has earned it with a display which is a record in more ways than one.

WONDERFUL SCORING BY NOTTS' CRICKETER

Extraordinary Exhibition of Fierce Batting—115 Made in Seven Overs

The Hove ground at Brighton, England, has been the scene of many brilliant batting performances, but probably nothing has been accomplished there or perhaps on any other enclosure more remarkable than that achieved on Saturday by the young Notts batsman, Edward Alletson, who gave a most extraordinary exhibition of fierce hitting. He has always been known as a batsman with strong punishing powers with a powerful drive, but he entirely eclipsed anything he has ever before done in first class cricket.

Even the hurricane feats of Jessop were overshadowed by Alletson. There has been nothing like his innings of 189 before in first class cricket. He scored 115 runs out of 120 in seven overs and made his last 89 in 15 minutes. In one over of eight balls—two no-balls were included — from Killick he made 34, made up of three 6's and four 4's.

Going in when his side seemed to be in a most hopeless position—Notts, with seven wickets down in their second innings being only nine runs on—he accomplished the extraordinary feat of scoring 189 runs out of 227 in 90 minutes. In 50 minutes before lunch he obtained 47, and though that represented good work it was nothing out of the common for a forcing batsman. The wonderful part of his innings came after the interval, when he had Riley, the last man, as his partner. The latter played the part of the quiet onlooker, who was content to keep up his end though he had very few balls to play.

Alletson took the game into his own hands and treated Killick and Leach as though they were a pair of schoolboys. He began by scoring nine runs off each bowler in the first two overs, and then hit Killick for 22 in one over. Nineteen came from Leach's second over, Alletson reaching his hundred in 75 minutes, having made his second 50 in 20 minutes.

Already Alletson had Achieved much for honor and glory, but he now proceeded to surpass all that had gone before. He hit Killick for 11 in the following over, and Leach for 17 in the succeeding one, and then came the crowning point—34 runs in one over from Killick. That bowler sent down two no-balls, so that the latter had eight balls to deal with. He scored from seven of them, obtaining three 6's and four 4's. He had then since lunch made 115 runs out of 120 from seven consecutive overs. Robert Relf was then put on for Leach, and was hit for 15 in his second over, but Cox, after being twice sent to leg for four, got Alletson extremely well caught by Smith standing with his back to the grand stand.

Some idea of the remarkable character of the closing stages of this wonderful innings was that Alletson scored his last 89 runs in 15 minutes. With two or three exceptions all his runs came from tremendous drives.

Twice he sent the ball over the grand stand, once into the pavilion seats and on five other occasions he cleared the ring either to the on or off. His score was made up by eight 6's, 23 4's, four 5's, ten 2's, and 17 singles.

Sussex were left with 237 runs to get to win, and as three hours and a quarter remained for play when they went in there was a reasonable amount of time at their disposal. The opening of their innings gave promise of their ultimate victory, but before the end was reached Sussex were in danger of being beaten, Notts nearly pulling the match out of the fire.

Robert Relf and Vine gave their side a brilliant start, the former being in quite a happy mood. In 75 minutes the pair put up 112 runs, Relf contributing 71 by delightful cricket. Then came a sudden and decisive change. The score had only been advanced to 139 when Heygate, Vine and Albert Relf were dismissed. Further misfortunes overtook the side, Cox and Tudor failing, and Sussex, with six men out for 148, were not only behind the clock, but with the worst of the match.

When Leach joined Killick 89 runs were wanted with 75 minutes left, and so slowly were they obtained that it became evident that the batsmen's best game was to endeavor to play out time.

Ten minutes were left when the eighth wicket fell, but Smith and Vincett stayed together until 6.30. At the close Sussex, with only two wickets in hand, were 24 runs short of the number required to win.

ABOUT BASEBALL

At an informal meeting of the directors of the Victoria Baseball Club last evening it was unanimously decided that something must be done, and done quickly, to lift the "jinks" which has so persistently stuck with the Islanders. The "something" was the deposing of Player Manager Householder in favor of Fred Raymer. No one doubts Eddie's ability to fill the position as far as knowledge of baseball and the inside workings of a team goes, but it seems his spirit has been a little too warlike. Now that a man who has had almost as much experience and is, presumably, a "cooler head," is captain, the fans will watch anxiously for a change in Victoria's portion of that column marked "won."

• • •

Perhaps a great many of the fans are not aware that when Lane went into the box against the Tacoma Tigers for three innings the other day he was, in a way, giving himself a last chance. If his arm went back on him he intended to get out of baseball for good. But judging by the exhibition he gave he must be coming back.

• • •

Pitcher Narveson has been recalled from Moosejaw in the Twilight league and will probably join the Islanders before the week is out. On May 30 Moosejaw played a double header. Narveson pitched both and won both on shutouts, so he is evidently no slouch.

• • •

Rex DeVogt, the catcher whom Victoria received from Tacoma, has been sent back to the Boston American League club to whom he belongs. Dashwood will soon be in shape to work, and with Spiesman catching good ball Householder did not think it advisable to carry a third backstop, particularly in view of the fact that DeVogt would revert to Boston at the end of the season in any case.

Davis, the club physician, pronounced Chance's ailment to be a repetition of the nerve trouble that laid him up two years ago. Chance has started treatment for the new disorder.

BATTER SHOULD LET FIRST BALL GO BY

Dahlen Says Pitcher Puts All He Has on the First Shoot

Bill Dahlen, manager of the Brooklyn Nationals, favors the theory that the batter should pass up the first ball offered by the pitcher, whether a man is on first base or not.

"It's much more advantageous to a player to take the first ball," says the Superbas' leader, "for by so doing he has a better opportunity of reaching first base. As a rule, a pitcher will put all he has on his first ball, and the chances are about ten to one against the batter hitting it safely.

"Let him take the first strike. The fact that he has one called on him should not impair his hitting ability in the least. A good batter should be able to hit as well with one strike against him as with a clean slate.

"By hitting at the first ball the batter loses two other opportunities to reach first base—via a base on balls or by being hit with a pitched ball. Should he connect with the first one and the drive fails to go safe he will also sacrifice these other chances to get on.

"It always pays to work the pitcher to the limit. It is only logical that a heaver, no matter how strong or robust, will not be as strong at the end of four or five innings, during which the batters have played him to the limit, as he will be at the end of the same period if he has pitched but one or two balls to each batter. Waiting out a pitcher in this fashion has caused the winning of many battles in the last innings.

"Of course it must be remembered that this system cannot be faithfully and rigorously adhered to day in and day out. If the pitcher knows the batter will pass up the first ball he is sure to whip a beauty over the plate, an advantage which will add greatly to his confidence.

However, when advisable a batter should be able to mix up his tactics and attempt to cross the pitcher. Should he have been passing up the first ball and he knows that the pitcher is aware of this fact it would be well for him to reverse his policy and swing at the first one, which under such circumstances is usually a very hitable offering. By thus mixing the hitting the batter always keeps the hurler from knowing as to what to expect from him after the first ball."

What makes Mr. Sutton's wonderful performances the more remarkable is the fact that he has no arms.

Sorrow reigns in the ranks of the Bay oarsmen. Hopgood, who, with Monk, was slated to row in the doubles in the N. P. A. A. As the oarsmen have not much longer to train this is very unfortunate and may possibly prevent Hopgood from taking part in the regatta.

General Marchmont has been given top weight in the Opening Handicap at one mile at Minoru park, Vancouver, to-morrow afternoon. Racing Secretary Robert Leighton of the Vancouver Jockey Club announced the weights for the big event Thursday evening, and he has assigned 113 pounds to the General. The entries have been given light imposts all round, and as there is a lot of speed in the list to carry the field in the early stages, it will be strange if the record for the distance is not bettered considerably. Here are the weights: The Opening Handicap, one mile—Miss Roberts, 106; Velsini, 98; Don Corique, 100; Roy Junior, 109; Daddy Gip, 107; Judge Henderson, 106; Seth, 101; Ada Meade, 104; Dr. Dougherty, 100; Ocean Queen, 110; Sir John, 104; Rosevale, 108; General Marchmont, 113; Jack Paine, 112; Blondy, 106; Get-Rich-Quick, 90; Cleopat, 103; Delmas, 95; Rusmux, 90.

Portland, Ore., June 10.—Miss Nora Combe, the 21-year-old "phenom" of Victoria, won the woman's golf championship of the Pacific Northwest in the tournament yesterday, Mrs. T. B. Curran of Tacoma succumbing in the final bracket, 3 up and 1 to play.

W. B. Mixter of Portland, defeated L. R. Hargreaves of Victoria, conqueror of champion R. L. Maclay in Thursday's round in the semi-finals. This leaves the 1911 championship between himself and R. L. Latham of Seattle, who won from D. Martin of Victoria.

The finals in the men's divisions will be played to-day, 18 holes this morning and 18 holes in the afternoon. Mixter and Hargreaves were 5 up in the forenoon yesterday and finished the 36 holes 2 up and 1 to play.

"The Razor of To-day"

GILLETTE Blades Are Harder—
Keener—Smoother—Than Forged Razor Blades

Before the GILLETTE was invented razor blades were all forged. That is, a piece of mild steel was heated and hammered out till it took the form of a razor blade. Every heating, every hammering, changed the hardness of the steel a little—how much, no man could tell, but more in some parts than others, because these parts were hammered out more.

Naturally, to temper perfectly a blade of such uncertain and uneven hardness is impossible.

In making GILLETTE blades we start with an ingot of steel, too fine in quality to stand forging, whose composition we know by analysis. We roll this out to the thinness of the finished blade, then stamp out the blades ready for tempering.

The composition of the steel is not altered by the rolling and stamping as it is by forging, so that each blade comes out not only even in texture throughout, but of the same quality as every other blade. As our patented automatic tempering process tempers each blade through and through in precisely the same way, the finished blades have an even, uniform hardness which cannot possibly be equalled in forged blades.

Two of the hardest, keenest, smoothest shaving edges the world has ever seen are found on each and every GILLETTE blade. Not only is the GILLETTE the safest, quickest, most convenient and only adjustable razor, but it carries the best edge. That is what interests the shaver most.

BY L. DE B. HANDLEY.

(Copyright, 1911, by the New York Herald Co. All rights reserved.)

DURING the indoor swimming season of 1910-11, just closed, American watermen gave conclusive evidence of having attained the leadership of the world, at least in sprinting. C. M. Daniels, Perry McGillivray, Richard Frizelle and Harry Hebner swam a sensational race in the contest for the national one hundred yard championship, finishing within a few inches of one another in 56 4-5s., and several other men, including Nicholas Nerich, James Reilly, Harry O'Sullivan, John Shrock, E. G. Schall, William Howe, Eben Cross, Kenneth Huszagh and F. Mallen at some time or other this winter travelled the classic century under sixty seconds. Such speed has never before been witnessed in any country.

In view of these performances, considerable interest attaches to the strokes used by those who made them, for to these strokes must be attributed the sudden and unexpected development.

The writer of this article has collected from all the coaches who had a hand in the teaching of the above mentioned sprinters a short description of the methods used, and their combined views will serve as a comprehensive and valuable lesson to all who aspire to expert ability in the art of natation.

Frank Sullivan, who is mainly responsible for the success of McGillivray, Hebner and Frizelle, had the following to say:—

"I teach my pupils by starting them on the double over stroke, without allowing them to use their legs. In fact, I instruct them not to think about their legs at all, for if they do the muscles stiffen and a drag occurs. I make them roll heavily at first, both because it enables them to bring their arms out of the water cleanly and because I have found that the natural tendency to straighten the body by a flip of the legs after the roll unconsciously gives the correct thrash.

"Later I put them on the leg drive alone, making them hold the hands above the head, and as they have already mastered the rudiments it is simply a case of their using a little more power.

"As to the movements in detail, I advocate a comfortably long reach, with arms slightly bent, elbows lifted a trifle, wrists hooked and fingers close together. The catch is made on a line with the centre of the head and the pull is hard and steady throughout, the hands passing under the body near the centre and coming out at the hip. On the recovery the muscles should relax completely. By no means should the arms be held stiff in reaching. Up to 220 yards the second arm should catch just as the first is about to finish. Over longer distances the body should be allowed to glide on the arm extended opposite to the side on which breath is taken.

"The kick is a straight leg scissor kick about one foot in width, taken on each arm reach, with a flutter after each kick. The feet should not come out of water; the knees should never be drawn up, and the leg muscles should at no time be held rigid after the scissor spread.

"I consider correct breathing an all-important point. Many good swimmers seem to think the less they breathe the faster they go. I hold this wrong and believe breath should be inhaled at every stroke to afford proper oxygenation to the lungs and avoid breaking the balance of the body, a natural consequence of waiting too long and reaching high for air when it becomes a necessity.

"I attribute my pupils' ability to go any distance to the way in which they breathe."

E. C. M. Richards, who has twice turned out championship teams at Yale and developed Howe, has ideas somewhat different.

"Speaking broadly," he said, "our stroke consists of a double over arm stroke, combined with a fast alternate up and down movement of the legs.

"The first consideration in the arm stroke is to see that the arm does not strike the water before the hand, a rather prevalent fault that causes great loss of power. This is obviated by raising the elbow and bending the wrist. We have tried catching both in front of the head and directly over each shoulder, but results have not proved the superiority of either style definitely. In my opinion it is best to carry the arms slightly bent and under the body during the drive, but some of our best swimmers hold them straight and follow the shoulder line. The drive should end when the arms are at right angles to the body and the hands come out of water near the short ribs. I believe carrying them to the hips entails a useless loss of energy. The hands should strike the water at regular intervals.

"The legs are held straight, as any bending increases their resisting surface. The thrash is narrow and continuous. I fail to see where Australians gain anything by raising the foot out of water, and I don't believe in their method—if they really use it, which I doubt—of timing the right arm with the left leg, and vice versa. Still, I don't think the action of arms and legs is totally independent, as I notice a distinctly synchronous connection between them after a swimmer has become proficient.

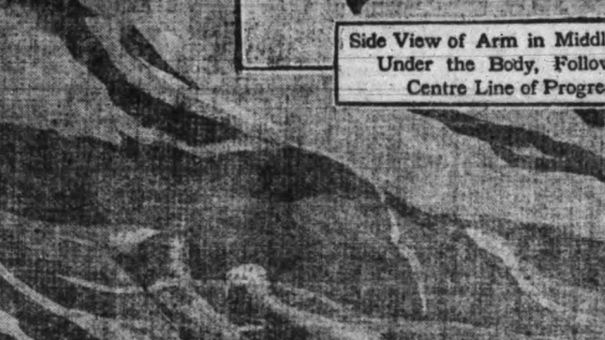
"The position of the body in the water I consider very important. In keeping it straight and flat the resistance is brought to a minimum. The head gives most trouble, as a rule. Beginners either bury it between the shoulders or carry it so high that the legs are forced deep under water. Upright, with the eyebrows striking the surface, is the idea position.

"Breathing is, of course, an essential feature of the stroke. I have come to the conclusion that one should breathe only at each second or third stroke up to fifty yards, at every stroke above one hundred yards. The head should be twisted, not lifted, to inhale, and, while the mouth only should be used to take in air, both mouth and nostrils should exhale it under water."

George Kistler, instructor at the University of Pennsylvania, who has turned out some of the best swimmers this country has produced, was not inclined to give out all the secrets of his profession, but allowed a few interesting items to leak out.

"On most points I agree with the majority of swimmers," he said, "but not on all. I watched the Western men carefully and noted several faults. McGillivray catches the water close to his head; Frizelle has a longer reach, but also crosses his arm stroke; Hebner does the same and bends his body. All three pull inward with their arms and under the body. It may be right, but I don't think so."

Evidently Kistler believes in catching over the shoulders and carrying arms straight and slightly outside of the body. He is not the only one. Lionel McKenzie, of the College of the City of New York, who brought out Reilly and several others who are making history in the East, expressed the following views:—



Upper Arm Finishing at the Hips—Head Twisted to Inhale—Legs Show Widest Opening of Crawl Thrash.

Front View of Middle of Arm Drive, Hand Passing Under Centre of Body.

Upper Arm Finishing the Drive and Preparing to Recover.

This Photograph Shows How Air Is Inhaled Throughout the Drive of the Upper Arm.

"My belief in the crawl stroke which obtains in this country is based upon results. Our lack of facilities, compared to those of England and Australia, is so glaring that only a superiority of methods can explain the remarkable progress of our swimmers. I think American coaches agree pretty well on the basic principles and only differ on details, and principally on the arm movements. In my mind the arms should reach out well, but without strain. Any attempt to overreach will force the head under water and throw out the entire body. The arms should be slightly curved, with elbows high and hands bent, on entering the water. They should catch over the shoulder and be driven down on a line with the outer body until reaching the thigh, then raised and brought forward clear of the water for another stroke. The power should be applied uniformly, without jerks.

"The legs should be used more to govern the position of the swimmer in the water than to propel, and I think many men handicap themselves by trying to do too much work with them. They lose valuable energy without proper return for it. A narrow, continuous, not too powerful fluttering of the feet will give best results.

"I feel certain the crawl can be used for any distance if swum this way, and it has been proved that it is not only a sprinting stroke."

Alexander Meffert, of the Chicago Athletic Association, who has taught Mallen and Huzagh, is not wholly in accord with the others.

"It has been my experience," he explained, "that although the swimmer should be flat on the water, with head up, and surface level with the nose, it is best to arch the shoulders and have the feet as near the surface as possible.

"The reach should be natural, with hands dropped. The arms should be swept down to finish at the side, with straight arm motion.

"The pressure of the legs should be principally downward and the action alternate. The lower leg lifted out of water and then down with a thrash.

"The time of arms and legs is distinct, i. e., there are about three motions of the legs to each arm stroke and a pause between the arm and leg motions.

"The time to breathe is when the hand on the same side is finishing. Inhalation should be made through the mouth, exhalation through the nostrils while the body is horizontal. The timing is the same in one or ten strokes. One can breathe whenever one wishes by rolling to the side."

Otto Wahle, who trained and coached Reilly, Nerich and O'Sullivan this year would not express a positive opinion.

"We are at the experimental stage," he said, "and I confess that my views are unsettled. Recent developments have led me to try new ideas, and, while some men profited by the change, others went back.

"Give me six more months and I may be able to report positively. I believe in a long, unstrained reach, with curved arms, and I think the leg drive should be continuous; but as to where the hands should catch and how the arms should travel in the drive, I'm not ready to say.

"I do wish you would emphasize the fact, however, that fifty yard swimming is the curse of this country. You can never teach a man anything by making him dash over a short course. If all our coaches would only put their every pupil at long, easy stretches until they had thoroughly mastered a correct stroke we would soon have swimmers as good at the distances as they are in the sprints. I'm trying hard to have all fifty yard races abolished, and if I succeed you'll see an immediate and wonderful improvement in form and speed."

In the combined views of the men above quoted is embodied the essence of knowledge of the art of natation in this country, and the candidate has his pick of the most successful methods existing. As Mr. Wahle very wisely points out, we are still at the experimental stage; but for the matter of that, so are all other countries, and since we have produced the best sprinters in the world it is evidently not much use to look elsewhere for better strokes.

ANXIETY FELT FOR SAFETY OF VESSEL

British Empire Not Yet Reported—Many Days Overdue From Scotland

Considerable anxiety is being felt in shipping circles both here and at Vancouver for the safety of the new Northern Steamship Company's steamer British Empire, en route from Grangemouth, Scotland, to this coast to enter on the Prince Rupert run. She was expected to reach the William Head quarantine station about the first of this month, and as she is many days overdue it is feared that the vessel has met with some accident and has put into some small coast village, where it is impossible to get into communication with the owners, or that she has met with disaster while bucking the heavy storms after leaving Coronel.

When nearing St. Vincent on her way to this port, the steamer experienced trouble with her engines, and it is thought probable that her machinery may again have broken down and forced her to put into some port. The Empire had to remain for several weeks at Cape Verde to await the arrival of new pieces of mechanism. She has been reported as arriving at all the other coaling stations on time, but shipping men are unable to account for the lengthy run she is making from Callao.

Mariners here figure that it is rather too long a stretch between the Peruvian port and Cape Flattery for a boat the size of the British Empire, the net tonnage of which is 200 tons. The C. P. R. steamer Princess Mary, which is larger than the Empire, was unable to make the run between these ports and had to call at San Francisco for coal, her supply taken on at Callao being nearly exhausted.

Word of the position of the Empire is being anxiously awaited here and as she is not equipped with wireless telegraphy it is impossible to pick her up at sea. Whether she is now lying at some southern port with her machinery disabled or is still ploughing her way up the coast is a question which is occupying the minds of shipping men. It is hoped that very shortly some kind of a message will be received here so as to dispell the fast gathering snystery.

The Vancouver officials of the company are perhaps the most anxious inquirers as to the location of the British Empire. These delays are proving costly to the company, as they contemplated having the vessel operating to the north several months ago.

ACCOMPLISHES NEW NAVIGATION FEAT

River Steamer Pushes a Scow Up the Fraser Between Hope and Yale

After completing a new feat in the navigation of the Fraser river, the sternwheeler Hamlin, of the Greer-Coyle fleet, has just returned to New Westminster. While on her regular run up the river the steamer pushed from Hope to Yale a scow loaded with freight, which is something that has never before been accomplished on the Fraser.

Capt. Stayten, one of the Columbia river pilots, was on the bridge of the Hamlin while she was pushing the scow against the fast running waters, and although it was his first time on the Fraser he had no difficulty in navigating the vessel up the river. The water at the time was high and running at an extra fast speed, but the steamer pushed her nose forward and completed a feat never before tried on the main artery of British Columbia.

When the vessel tied up at both towns the residents flocked out to welcome her, as she had not only established a name for herself in pushing the scow up the river, but had brought much needed supplies to the interior towns. The children of the towns joined in the demonstration, which was the best the burgs had seen for some time.

The fact that the first attempt at navigating the Fraser in this manner has proven successful it is believed that this will form the chief method of conveying freight between these two points.

WHITE LINER WAS A FLOATING CITY

BRINGS 700 PASSENGERS ACROSS FROM YOKOHAMA

Empress of Japan Docks With Million Dollar Silk Cargo—Has Gloomy Passage

That the tourist travel between the Orient and the Pacific Coast has just commenced was proven this morning when the R. M. S. Empress of Japan, Capt. S. Robinson, arrived at the outer wharf from Yokohama and Hongkong. The white liner brought across from the Far East about 150 first-class and 50 second-class passengers. She was a regular floating village, as with her 500 steerage passengers she had a total of 700 souls on board.

Every available berth was taken in the first and second cabins, and many persons had to be refused passage on the vessel at Oriental ports. Although the vessel had a big list she was not overcrowded, and the various games and amusements indulged in provided a source of enjoyment for them. Last night while the vessel was nearing the coast of this island the final concert of the trip was given, and at this the prizes won by the different teams in the sports which had been held aboard were presented to the winners.

Another fast passage has been recorded to the Japan, the record-holder for the distance across the Pacific, as she made the trip in less than 12 days. When about four days off the coast she ran into a heavy southeast gale, which lasted for several days and battered the ship about. The officers aboard also state that the passage has been rather a dirty one for this time of the year, as considerable rain and cloudy weather was encountered.

The white liner will discharge at Vancouver a silk cargo valued at a million dollars, including 1,236 bales of raw silk, 144 bales of wild silk and 149 bales of piece goods. She also had a general cargo consisting of the regular imported Oriental goods.

Among the passengers who came across on the Empress were: Sir Joseph Hutchinson, accompanied by Lady Hutchinson, chief justice of Ceylon, who are en route to England; Vicomte and Vicomtesse De Galembert, of France, who are touring the world; Marquis Dionsi, of Italy, who is also on a sight-seeing tour, and Rt. Rev. Bishop Partridge, of Keoto, Japan, who is on furlough.

FIRST VESSEL FROM IDITAROD REPORTS

Packet Sarah Reaches Dawson—Guggenheims Buying the Richest Creeks in District

Dawson, Y. T., June 10.—The packet Sarah, the first steamer of the season from Iditarod, arrived, bringing only four passengers and no gold from that point. The passengers include C. A. Bloom, who says Iditarod will be busy this summer and that there will probably be a heavy production.

The merchants there are greatly alarmed, he says, at reports that the Guggenheims are going to buy the richest creeks. Three Guggenheim men are reported in Iditarod. Tom Liken, Frank Manley's partner, has an option on most of Flat creek, which it is reported will be sold for two or three millions. The merchants fear that the Guggenheims will buy up the ground and bring in all their own supplies.

Copeland, the former manager for the Guggenheims at Etna, went with a crew from Fairbanks in March over the trail.

A. E. Austin left here for Dikeman two weeks ago.

Drills are understood to be now at Whitehorse for the lower Yukon for the Guggenheims.

NOTICE TO MARINERS.

Captain Moloney of the steamer Tahoe, reports that at 8.45 a. m., May 25, 1911, the red bell buoy, "2B," at Gray's Harbor, was entirely submerged and visible one foot under water.

Captain Scobie of the steamer Senator, reports through Captain Hannah of the S. S. City of Puebla, that he saw some big logs 15 miles S. S. W. of Race Rocks on the night of June 1st, 1911.

CORWIN LANDS PASSENGERS.

Unable to Find Shore Lead, People Leave Vessel—Reach Nome on Sleighs.

Nome, Alaska, June 10.—The steamer Corwin arrived off the ice five miles out from Nome Thursday, failed to find a shore lead and landed her passengers on the ice, whence they were brought to Nome by dog teams.

SIXTY KOREANS DROWNED.

Blagovestchensk, Asiatic Russia, June 10.—Sixty Koreans were drowned while trying to escape from the steamer Mugaievv Amurski, when the vessel was destroyed by fire in the Amur river Thursday night.

The British steamer Centurion, carrying 10,000 tons of cargo and making a speed of 13 knots, is the next vessel due for Balfour Guthrie & Co., and will probably arrive on June 10, having left Swansea April 25.

FIRST OF ALASKAN VOYAGES NEXT WEEK

Spokane Leaves Victoria Thursday With All Accommodation Taken

First of this year's excursions being run to Alaskan points by the Pacific Coast company will leave this port on Thursday morning next, on the steamship Spokane. As is always the case in connection with these cruises, which have been held for several years, the liner has had all her accommodation taken and on each of the five trips the vessel will carry her specified number to the various interesting cities in the north, which have many decades of unrivalled history attached to their names.

The first of the excursions leave here on Thursday next; the second two weeks after that date; the third, July 13; the fourth, July 27; and the fifth, August 10. On each trip the steamship will visit the following ports along the Alaskan coast: Ketchikan, Metlakatla, Wrangel, Juneau, Treadwell gold mines, Skagway, Haines, Glacier Bay, Davidson Glacier, Taku Glacier, Windom Glacier and Sitka.

Designed especially for Alaskan service, having double bottom and watertight compartments that insure safety, the Spokane is one of the finest vessels that could be secured to handle the excursions, which are one of the most popular trips of the season and which are always patronized in a most liberal manner. For a fortnight the passengers are housed in this vessel and are permitted to go ashore for several hours at each of the stopping places.

During that time the steamship passes through land-locked ocean waters, the course measuring nearly twenty-five hundred miles. Past beautiful forested islands, waterfalls, giant glaciers and snow-capped mountain ranges, the excursionist is taken on the steamship, and it is doubtful if more magnificent scenery can be found anywhere in the world than along the Alaskan coast.

On Thursday the Spokane left San Francisco for the Sound, after being overhauled and placed into the best shape for the excursionists. She will go to Seattle to take on her passengers and then come to the outer wharf, where the local excursionists will embark on Thursday morning. F. D. Dunan, general passenger agent for the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, will be among those who will make the first passage on the Spokane to Alaska.

MARINE NOTES

The Allan liner Tunisian arrived at Montreal this morning from Liverpool. She docked at Quebec yesterday.

• • •

Bringing many passengers and considerable freight, the C. P. R. steamer Joan will arrive in port to-morrow morning from Nanaimo and Comox. The steamer now calls at Pender Island on her way north on Tuesday and coming south on Sundays.

• • •

The British steamship Horneby Castle, now discharging part cargo of freight at San Pedro from Antwerp and other European ports, will leave Saturday for San Francisco and will proceed from there to Vancouver, B. C., Seattle and Tacoma. So far as known the vessel has not been chartered again.

• • •

The management of the Canadian-Australian Royal Mail line in New Zealand and Australia is now inviting applications from shippers for cold storage space for frozen meat, butter, rabbits, etc. As all applications must be filed by shippers not later than July 1, 1911, it is necessary for importers to communicate promptly with their shippers.

• • •

Repairs to the big Hill liner Minnesota, which broke one of her shafts while on her last voyage from the Orient to Seattle, are nearing completion on the Sound. A new shaft has been installed and the broken one taken out of the vessel. The big rod of steel, which was twisted off like a match, occupied a whole flatcar, on which it was placed after being taken out of the big liner. The Minnesota will sail from Seattle.

• • •

Making her first appearance on Elliott Bay in nearly ten years, the barque Albert, has arrived at Seattle. The Albert will go on drydock for cleaning and painting. She made a fast voyage of fifteen days from Honolulu. The Albert was built at Port Blakeley twenty years ago by Hall Brothers and has a fortunate career. During her many voyages across the Pacific in the Hawaiian trade she was never disabled and never went aground.

• • •

Bound for the volcanic island of Bogoslof and Mount Shishaldin, which have been spitting fire and ashes far into the sky; Miles and Muir glaciers, the seal rookeries of Pribilof Island, the bird rookeries of Walrus Island and the Siberian coast, the little power schooner Polar Bear, the stanchest craft of her type ever built on the Sound, in command of Capt. Louis L. Lane, a Nome mining man of long and varied experience in the Far North, will sail from Seattle next Wednesday morning.

• • •

Lying in the Seattle harbor bobbing up and down on the swells from passing steamers as lightly as a chip, there was a queer looking craft. It was not a schooner, it is hardly a launch; in fact, it looks more like a houseboat, but in the little tortoise-shaped vessel, which bold letters announce is the "Outdoor Life," two hardy and adventurous men are going to make a voyage of several thousand miles. The "Outdoor Life," was taken to Seattle from San Pedro on the steamship Hazel Dollar, and will make a voyage down the Yukon river to Norton sound, stopping at Dawson and the mining camps in that district.

British-Pacific Coal Co. Shares Advanced to 50c on Tuesday, June 27th

Identified with the advancement and progress of industry and commerce in British Columbia is the development of her great coal areas, prominent among which is the anthracite coal fields of Graham Island, situated along Skidegate Inlet, 80 miles from Prince Rupert City.

Prince Rupert city is to-day in identically the same condition as Vancouver was twenty odd years ago, before the C. P. R. main line had reached the shores of Burrard Inlet.

The anthracite coal lands of Skidegate Inlet are to-day in a parallel position to what the now famous coal mines on Vancouver Island were twenty-five years ago.

The completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway to Prince Rupert in eighteen months time must mean the building of a city at the Pacific terminal of this great railway system, equally as important in commerce and industry as Vancouver, Seattle, Portland or San Francisco.

Prince Rupert is surely the shipping centre and the logical capital of our great northern empire.

It is here that the ships of the Orient and every boat that trades on the Pacific must call in order to receive its share of the freight which passes through Prince Rupert from the great grain fields of the mighty prairies to the east of the Rocky mountains.

The present railway systems through British Columbia have in a great measure developed the lower portion of the province and have drawn to Vancouver city from along the main lines thousands of tons of freight and naturally caused to be diverted many of the natural resources of the province in the area tapped by the railway.

If you will turn to the records of the total resources of the province you will find, however, that the mineral and timber wealth of the lower portion of this province already opened up by the railway systems is a mere drop in the bucket, as it were, when compared with the vastness of the coal lands and the rich deposits of metallic ores.

The millions of feet of timber, the thousands of acres of rich farming land, all of which is to be reached and opened up in our new north by the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, must use Prince Rupert as its clearing house.

Prince Rupert will in eighteen months' time spring into prominence.

The completion of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to the Coast will mark the dawn of a great city.

The thousands of industries to be located in Prince Rupert require coal.

The coal must come from the nearest mine.

These mines are situated on Skidegate Inlet, Graham Island, 80 miles from the property.

The average reader understands the importance of anthracite coal.

It is the hardest quality of coal mined, and its scarceness on the North American continent has rendered the mining and development of bituminous and lignite coal lands profitable to the operators.

Where anthracite coal may be placed on the market at the same cost of mining and transportation as bituminous or lignite coal, it is readily seen that the anthracite coal quite properly controls the price of fuel.

Such will be the condition of affairs of the fuel market of the Pacific Coast cities when the British Pacific Coal Company ships its anthracite coal from their property on Skidegate Inlet, Graham Island.

The British Pacific Coal Company controls a very extensive area of coal property, 8,320 acres.

The company is being organized in Vancouver and elsewhere throughout the province by professional men who foresee the great demand for fuel, who have already felt the gradual increase in the price of coal brought about through the limited supply and ever increasing demand.

The very fact that the property of The British Pacific Coal Co. practically controls the whole area of anthracite coal in western Canada assures the company that it may control the price of coal on the Pacific Coast.

The coal from the property of The British Pacific Coal Company carries from 82 to 93 per cent fixed carbon, and fixed carbon represents heat value.

The bituminous coal mined on Vancouver Island and elsewhere along the Pacific rarely exceeds 50 per cent fixed carbon, while lignite coal runs as low as 22 per cent fixed carbon.

There is no coal that can compete with anthracite coal on this coast.

The British Pacific Coal Company is but 80 miles from Prince Rupert, and being situated on one of the finest harbors on the Pacific Coast, all seagoing craft can load at the bunkers of the company, and ship direct to Vancouver, Prince Rupert, Victoria, Portland, Seattle or San Francisco.

Steamship owners are elated over the idea of being able to secure anthracite coal carrying 83 per cent fixed carbon, since that will require but one-half of the tonnage of coal required to cover the distance now possible through the use of bituminous coal as fuel, since one ton of anthracite coal will practically raise as much steam as two tons of bituminous or three or four tons of lignite coal.

Add to this the great saving in stoking, insurance and the economy of space in the hold.

One ton of anthracite takes up but half the space of other coal.

That space will permit more freight to be carried.

This means more revenue to the ship owner.

T. R. Morrow announces that on Tuesday, June 27th, price of shares will be advanced to 50 cents per share.

There are only a limited number of shares available now at 35c a share and, judging from the number of mail orders and the activity in the sales in the cities of Vancouver and Victoria, the 35c issue may be closed out any day.

Mr. Morrow positively states that any unsold shares of the 35c issue will be withdrawn from the market at 9.00 p.m. on Monday, June 26th, and the new issue offered to the public on Tuesday morning, June 27.

A word of warning to those resident at a distance:

Wire T. R. Morrow to-day the number of shares you wish reserved.

Follow your wire with a letter by first mail enclosing cash to the extent of 10c per share for each share reserved by wire.

On receipt of the wire Mr. Morrow will set aside the block reserved and allow sufficient time for a letter to come by early mail.

No application will be accepted for less than 100 shares at 35c.

The terms are 10c per share cash with application, the remainder in three equal monthly payments.

You will see, therefore, that by paying down 10c per share on the 100 shares—$10—on Tuesday morning, June 27th, through advance of the price to at least 50c per share, your profit is fifteen dollars and you have three months left in which to complete the payments on your purchase, and you have the satisfaction of knowing that long before the last payment is made the stock will be selling at 65c, 70c or $1.00 a share.

Alexander Faulds, the eminent coal engineer, stated that after a most thorough examination of the property of The British Pacific Coal Company, and taking into account one-half of the area and dealing with only one of the six seams, that there is at least 36,000,000 tons of coal available.

This is a most conservative estimate, since the seam is by no means the largest in the property. Mr. Faulds' statement is endorsed by five of the most responsible and most widely experienced coal engineers in America and Great Britain.

To-day Superintendent McMorris is at work at the property with a party of miners and they are rushing forward to completion the preliminary work in order that the engineers' plans to have coal on the local market in six months' time may be carried out, and the following telegram was just received from him by Trustee T. R. Morrow:

> Queen Charlotte City,
> Via Dead Tree Point,
> June 6, 1911.
>
> T. R. Morrow, Trustee.
> 124 Hastings St. W., Vancouver, B.C.
>
> Have just cut through two eight-foot seams clear coal, splendid coking and blacksmithing, different to any Robinson's tunnel.
>
> W. G. McMorris, Supt.

You must see, therefore, in view of such conditions and such representations, you are offered a proposition from which every element of chance has been eliminated and by buying shares in The British Pacific Coal Company at 35c you are buying at a price 30 or 40c lower than the shares will be worth two or three months hence. The terms are easy—so easy that anyone may own shares in the British Pacific Coal Company at the present price of 35c a share.

There is no need to wait for the railway, the company can ship coal immediately.

No necessity of sinking expensive shafts, since the coal outcrops on the surface.

If you believe in the future of British Columbia; if you have faith in the development of our natural resources, then buy stock in The British Pacific Coal Company at 35c a share.

Don't fail to send your wire to-day.

You will then have the satisfaction of knowing that your stock is reserved.

We advise you not to delay in writing.

You may be disappointed to receive word by return mail that the stock has all been sold.

Wire to-day collect and follow by remittance in first mail.

ADDRESS YOUR APPLICATIONS AND MAKE YOUR CHEQUES PAYABLE TO T. R. MORROW, TRUSTEE. THE OFFICE OF THE TRUSTEE IS 604 BROUGHTON STREET, VICTORIA, B. C., AND IS OPEN FROM 9 A.M. TO 9 P.M.

RAILWAY SCHEME FOR HARBOR FRONT

COUNCIL WILL MEET WITH THE PROMOTERS

Possible Objection to Spoiling Amenity of the Causeway Spoken to by Aldermen

The scheme of the Victoria Harbor Railway promoters, whose object is conveyed in their title, came before the city council last night in definite form for the first time. The solicitors of the company, Barnard, Robertson & Heisterman, wrote a letter to the council acquainting them formally of the intention to develop the harbor by railway connections, and asking the council to fix a date for a joint meeting with the promoters in view of the fact that it will be impossible to proceed with the scheme unless the city consents to grant certain rights involving the use of water frontage and street ends. The solicitors of the company also stated in their letter that immediately the by-law giving the necessary permission was passed by the people work on the construction of the railway, a description of which appeared in the Times the other day, would be commenced.

Not being in possession of any specific information in regard to the scheme the council signified its readiness to confer with the promoters, and a discussion ensued as to when and in what form—whether by committee or in council—the city fathers should meet with the promoters.

Ald. H. M. Fullerton favored the idea of the whole council being at the discussion, as the plans of the company involved some matters of supreme importance to the citizens and it was only right that every alderman should have an opportunity of learning the specific determination of the promoters before subscribing to a scheme that might prove detrimental in the highest degree to the amenity of the causeway and other parts of the city.

These sentiments were endorsed generally by the other members of the council and it was agreed to meet the promoters of the scheme on Tuesday evening. It is understood that the company is prepared to submit plans which will remove any possible objections regarding the causeway.

THINK SEA WALL BYLAW ASKING FOR TOO MUCH

Will Cut Proposition in Two and Try to Pass $60,000 Sections Only

Bylaws, bylaws, and still more bylaws. During the present year the citizens of Victoria have been asked to subscribe to the raising of enormous sums for works of utility, such as sewers and streets and other things, and last night, when it was that they should be asked to dip into their pockets once more for the Ross Bay sea wall proposition, Mayor Morley called a halt and politely questioned the rectitude of thrusting such an expensive bylaw—it calls for an expenditure of $160,000—before the people at this time.

According to the arrangements of Aldermen Peden and Langley, who are in charge of the work this year, it was recognized that the season was already too far advanced to hope to complete the scheme before winter tides and gales overtook the contractors. The part proposed to be gone on with this year was estimated to cost $60,000. It was to give protection to the cemetery frontage which suffered so much last year from want of any such protection.

The bylaw, as brought into the council last night, was for the sum of $160,000. Ald. H. M. Fullerton, who has always been an advocate of the scheme, stated that from the plans and advices of the English engineer, Mr. Case, the city was now in a position to proceed with the work. He emphasized the fact that it was intended to do only a part of it this year, and carry on the remainder next year. But, and he wanted no mistake to be made about it, if the necessary protection was not given to the cemetery this year they could expect a recurrence of the ravages of the winter gales of last year.

Alderman Peden characterized the present condition of things in regard to the foreshore in that locality as a disgrace, and Alderman Langley seconded his arguments in even more forceful terms.

That the work was necessary, eminently so, was not denied by anyone. But would the citizens stand for it was the question they had to settle. Mayor Morley expressed his opinion freely, which was to the effect that they would not. He did not think that the people would knock a proposition calling for $60,000 for the work that was absolutely necessary, but he was not at all sanguine of the passing of the bylaw as it stood for $160,000.

Alderman Humber found himself of the same opinion as the mayor. He thought that $160,000 was altogether too much to ask the ratepayers for at this time. Only recently extraordinary sums had been voted for civic work and he thought it was only fair to give them a rest up for a bit.

Alderman Okell, while favoring the speedy execution of the work, doubted if the ratepayers would stand for the expenditure as set forth in the bylaw.

The suggestion to reconsider the matter, with a view to ascertaining the possibility of confining the bylaw to the cost of the work intended to be done this year, was finally adopted. In this revised form it is thought that the bylaw will stand a much better chance of passing the people than it would in its original form.

WATER RATES PAY DAY.

On the recommendation of the water commissioner the water bylaw, under which the water rates are fixed, will be so amended that instead of all meter rates being payable on the last day of each month and subject to a ten per cent. discount if paid on or before the fifteenth day of the following month, the accounts will be made payable on the day they are rendered, with a discount of ten per cent. if paid within fifteen days. This will have the effect of spreading the payments over the whole month and will do away with the congestion that now prevails on the 15th of each month.

BAND CONCERT.

The Fifth Regiment band will play an impromptu programme of music at Beacon Hill park to-morrow afternoon, commencing at three o'clock.

LAUNCHING WHALER FOR LOCAL CONCERN

New Craft Taking Water at Seattle—Will Burn Oil and Fly American Flag

Seattle, Wash., June 10.—The first of the new steam whaling vessels being built by the Moran Company for Victoria capitalists will be launched at the Moran yards at six o'clock this evening. The vessel will be christened the Paterson, after President J. V. Paterson of the Moran company.

The new craft is one hundred feet over all and is of steel construction. It will be an oil burner and will be capable of making a speed of 12 knots an hour. The Paterson will fly the American flag despite the fact that she will be operated in connection with the Canadian North Pacific Fisheries Limited. Her owner is Dr. L. Rissmuller of Victoria, B. C.

Another whaling vessel, an exact duplicate of the Paterson, is nearing completion at the Moran yards and will be launched in a few days.

SCHOONER HAS ROUGH TRIP.

Ninety-Seven Days From Newcastle to San Francisco—Sailor Injured.

San Francisco, Cal., June 9.—The schooner George E. Billings arrived from Newcastle, Australia, on Thursday with coal from Hind, Rolph & Co. She was 97 days on the voyage, meeting with some very rough weather. She had to touch at Honolulu to land an injured sailor and made the run up from the island port in 27 days. After discharging the Billings will proceed to Puget Sound to load lumber for Sydney for the account of J. J. Moore & Co.

The Japanese liner Tenyo Maru arrived from Hongkong on Thursday. The report of the sale of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner America Maru to the Osaka Shosen Kaisha for $310,000 could not be verified here to-day. At the local office of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha it was stated that no confirmation of the sale had been sent from Japan as yet.

The British steamer Epson, under charter to the American Trading Company, left Thursday for Tacoma to complete loading lumber for Melbourne and Adelaide. She took on 531,000 feet at this port.

The British barque Antiope sailed for Eureka to load for Sydney. The Matson steamer Hyades left for the Sound to load for Honolulu.

MERGER ON GREAT LAKES.

Cleveland, O., June 10.—One of the largest steamship mergers in the history of the Great Lakes navigation was successfully completed yesterday, when five companies joined a combination. It will have a capital of $6,000,000 and a bond issue of $1,500,000.

NEW Y. M. C. A. HOME TO OPEN END OF JUNE

Furnishings Are Being Rapidly Installed — Gymnasium Equipment

It is probable that the new Y. M. C. A building will be opened some time during the last week in June. The interior is being put into shape as quickly as possible. The furnishings for the dormitories are now coming, so that work in that part will be completed soon.

In the gymnasium all the equipment has been installed and the carpenters are putting on the finishing touches this week. The gymnasium is certainly a credit to the institution in every sense, with its fine running track, basketball standards, and apparatus that is unsurpassed in completeness anywhere on the Coast.

R. C. Horne, the boys' secretary, will shortly go on a trip of inspection to the camping grounds at Sidney. He is going to devote his whole time to making this year's outing a memorable one. He hopes to have a launch in connection with the camp, and in other ways make it the biggest and best ever held.

In the governing of the camp Mr. Horne will have associated with him four or five leaders chosen from among the boys, who will divide the work between them. The junior camp is open to boys over fourteen years of age. It will begin in the second week in July and will last for two weeks.

NEW STYLE LIGHT IS THE STANDARD

PETITIONS WILL BE INEFFECTIVE NOW

City Electrician Thrown Down on Division by Six Votes to Five

The lighting problem of the city of Victoria has been settled—at least for the present—in favor of the New Westminster type of standard. This means that all the streets upon which the lighting operations have not yet been started will have to adopt the new standard whether they like it or not, but on the streets where the old standard has been started, as on Douglas and Yates street, it will be completed. As the initial intention of the council to stick by the old type was overthrown by a petition from the property owners on Pandora avenue it is not unlikely that other petitions requesting the council to revert to the old system on certain streets will be brought up before long.

At the meeting held on Wednesday the city electrician was asked to report upon the lighting situation in the city and as this report was brought in last night the whole matter was discussed again, and a decision was not arrived at until after considerable time had been monopolized.

Mayor Morley, who is hot after the old type of standard, suggested that the city electrician give the council his opinion of the difference in the cost of maintaining the two styles. Nothing on that point had been heard before, and as he understood that the difference would be considerable it would perhaps be better to hear the electrician on the subject.

On this invitation being extended him Mr. Hutchison stepped up to the forum and proceeded to argue against the adoption of the new style as a standard. On the point of maintenance he stated that the difference would amount to about a third in favor of the old type. This was due to a combination of causes. In the new style of standard the lights had to be inverted, and that was contrary to electrical custom; and their inverted position rendered them more subject to the vibration caused by traffic. Another advantage which the old style of light had over the new was that the drop light always gave the better light. The same amount of electricity would be consumed by either style, but in the matter of breakages the old style would prove far the more economical despite the lower rate at which the new style was offered.

The demand for a standard which has agitated the minds of the mayor and council since the matter was first mooted was then clinched. Ald. H. M. Fullerton thought they had heard enough to make up their minds upon, and accordingly he moved that the new style be adopted as the standard on all streets upon which lighting has not been started, but that where the old style has been started on any street it be continued on that street. The motion contained a rider that no petitions should be allowed to influence the council from the decision arrived at. Alderman Peden seconded.

Mayor Morley pointed out that the electrician was the only man in their midst who understood the proposition, and his recommendation was being turned down. He did not like the idea of the city retaining the services of a man for a specific purpose and then absolutely ignoring his recommendations. Furthermore, he saw no reason why the people should get what they wanted if it was contrary to the expert opinion of the man who was paid by the city to look after the city's interest in that respect.

Alderman Langley followed up the mayor in favor of the retention of the old style of light. Referring to the new style, which had been adopted in Vancouver, he said that the sweating of the globes was very palpable, and it had a very deleterious effect upon the light. As a matter of fact this new style, which had been labelled obsolete in a pamphlet submitted to them, represented a case in which Portland was aping Seattle, or Seattle aping Portland, and Vancouver aping both of them. (Laughter.) The old standard was undoubtedly the better standard. They had excellent testimony of that in Toronto, where it was being largely installed. He thought it would be a great pity to adopt what the electrician had stated was an obsolete style.

This attitude was strongly combatted by Alderman Moresby, who contended that it was perfectly ridiculous to assert that the most progressive cities on the Pacific coast were adopting a lighting standard that was obsolete.

Alderman Ross declined to accept the opinion of any alderman on such a technical matter. "What do you fellows know about electricity, anyway?" he asked.

Ald. W. F. Fullerton said that the present tangle in the matter had been caused by the fact that in the first place no committee had been appointed to consider the matter and then make recommendation to the council. Had that been done he felt sure that all the squabbling and petitioning would never have been heard of.

On being assured that no further petitions on the subject would be considered if the motion carried, Alderman Okell thought it was not exactly dignified that the council should allow itself to be dictated to by a few property-owners on Pandora avenue. He thought that other petitioners were entitled to similar treatment.

The motion was then put to the meeting, carrying by six votes to five, the closeness being occasioned by the not unusual practice of Alderman Gleason changing his mind. The council was divided as follows: For the motion, H. M. Fullerton, Peden, W. F. Fullerton, Bishop, Humber and Moresby. Against the motion: Mayor Morley, Aldermen Langley, Okell, Ross and Gleason.

A report on the number of lamps required under the old and new systems was submitted by Ald. H. M. Fullerton, showing that an expenditure in the neighborhood of $65,000 would be incurred therein. It was agreed to have a by-law prepared and submitted to the people along with the defeated by-laws for the parks and the public library.

The arc lights rendered needless by the new cluster system will be installed at the following points: Corner of St. Andrew's and Niagara streets; corner of Fernwood and Cedar Hill roads; corner of Gladstone avenue and Shakespeare street; four lamps in the vicinity of Ross, St. Charles, Mill and Blanchard streets; one lamp on Carrol street; corner of Douglas and Beacon streets; corner of Cecil street and King's road; corner of Haultain and Rosebery streets; on Heywood avenue; corner of Cook and Carlin streets; corner of Mason and Rebecca streets; corner of Hillside avenue and Blackwood street; corner of Camosun and Yates street; corner Camosun and Fisguard streets; corner of Bay and Prior streets; corner Vancouver and Oliphant streets; corner Vancouver and Sutlej streets; corner Sutlej and Cook streets; corner Fernwood road and Dallas road; on Wilson street, near the railway crossing; corner of Vancouver and Richardson streets; corner of Edmonton road and Cecil street; corner Harrison and Pandora avenue; on Niagara street between Oswego and Montreal streets; on Cornwall street between Richardson street and Fairfield road; corner of Cook and Pendergast streets; corner Cook street and King's road; corner of Fernwood road and Fisguard street; on Moss street between Richardson street and Fort street; on St. Charles street between Richardson street and Fairfield road; corner of May and Joseph street; corner of Cook street and Queen's avenue; corner of Fernwood road and Vining street; corner of Stanley avenue and Fisguard street; corner of Linden avenue and Oscar street; corner of Rose and Market street.

HUNDRED SPANISH SOLDIERS KILLED

Attacked by Force of Tribesmen While Reconnoitering in Morocco

Paris, June 10.—The correspondent of the Temps at Marina, Morocco, telegraphed yesterday that a clash had occurred between the Spanish troops and a force of tribesmen at Soularba Dekert. The Spanish losses were 100 killed. The tribesmen suffered a loss of probably sixty killed.

The Spanish troops were reconnoitering at Soularba Dekert when they were attacked.

The Spaniards retreated, but kept up a running fire as they fell back toward their base. The Spanish commander sent out a strong force with machine guns to punish the tribesmen.

Tribesmen Attack French.

Fez, June 5, (via Tangier.)—The Berber tribesmen made an attack to-day on the French military column as it was moving towards Mefkenez, a large Moroccan city 45 miles southwest of Fez. A force of native cavalry composed of 600 men engaged the tribesmen and drove them back. The French losses were five killed and twenty wounded. The tribesmen suffered many casualties.

CAMORRISTS' TRIAL.

Viterbo, June 10.—Cuocl, Neapolitan barbar, was again in court at yesterday's sitting of the Camorra trial. Judge Romano, who conducted the earlier investigation into the murder of Genarro Cuoccolo for which crime the 36 Cammorrists are now on trial and before whom Cuocl had testified that he saw among the rings worn by Cuoccolo the one sequestered by the carabineers following the arrest of the Camorrists, confronted the witness. The ring is regarded by the prosecution as an important link in the evidence connecting the accused with the murder of Cuoccolo and his wife.

When interrogated Cuocl wavered as to whether he had seen the ring. The president of the court urged the witness to tell the truth and say who induced him to tell the story of the ring. The witness, still hesitating, was threatened with prosecution for perjury.

WOMAN MURDERED.

C., June 10.—With a stocking tied around her neck, another crammed into her mouth and her hands tied behind her, the body of Mrs. Ida Hill, widow of Dr. Joseph Hill, was found at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. H. Ragsdale, at Jamestown, N. C. The murder is supposed to have been committed by burglars.

Thomas Bee, a Wesleyan preacher for sixty years, during which he delivered 3,800 sermons, died at Lowestoft recently.

McConnell announced yesterday that arrangements had been concluded for the financing of the new British and Canadian paint company, which is to be known as the Sherwin-Williams company of Canada. The new company takes over the Canadian business of the Sherwin-Williams company of the United States, Lewis Berger & Sons, Limited, of London, England, which has been for some years past the English end of the Sherwin-Williams business, and the Canada Paint company, which at the time of its organization represented a consolidation of three of the largest manufacturers of paint in Canada outside of the Sherwin-Williams company.

The capitalization of the company will comprise a present issue of $3,000,000 at 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock and $4,000,000 of common stock, all of which is issued.

ENGINEER KILLED.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 10.—Engineer A. W. Greene was killed and twenty trainmen and passengers were more or less seriously hurt yesterday when the westbound Santa Fe Limited dashed into a light engine near Domingo, N. M., thirty miles north of Albuquerque.

Railroad officials attribute the wreck to disobedience of orders by the engineer of the light engine. Both were traveling at high speed when the crash occurred, but the solid steel cars of the limited withstood the shock wonderfully well and, while the passengers were shaken it is not believed that any of them are mortally hurt.

LABORERS' RAISE IS TURNED DOWN

FAITH AND ECONOMY GOING HAND IN HAND

Council Decides That Labor is Not a "Material" Liable to Fluctuate

The law of economics, although it is understood to be the special forte of municipal directors, was allowed to suffer a bit of a shock in the council chamber last night when the request of the Victoria Laborers' Protective Association for an increase minimum wage for civic workers came up for discussion. The present wage is $2.75 per day, and it was requested that the wage be increased to $3.

The request was turned down flat after considerable discussion, involving not a little of the pyrotechnical flavor of irreconcilable antagonisms. Because a certain contractor has accepted a certain contract when the labor rate was low it was held by several of the aldermen that it would be unfair to that contractor for the city to countenance a movement that would upset the calculations upon which his price was based. They did not seem to realize that labor, in the hands of a contractor, is an element of material, essential material, that is as liable to fluctuate in price as any other material.

Ald. Moresby, who led the attack against the petitioners, suggested that the rate of wages in such a case should be decided by the engineer, who was the person in closest touch with the men concerned, and therefore the better qualified to deal with the matter. He pointed out that the minimum wage in Seattle was $2.25, and he held that to increase the wage by so much in this city would have a very bad effect. Furthermore, it was not so long since the minimum wage of these workers was raised to its present figure of $2.75. His principal argument, however, was the one stated above. Just recently the city had entered into a large paving contract with the Canadian Mineral Rubber Company, which company had guaranteed the city to pay its workers not less than the minimum wage. He contended, therefore, that it would not be fair to the company for the city to increase the rate after the tender had been accepted presumably on the existing rate. He thought that due consideration must be given to the contracts let by the city. The injury to unionism by such insistent demands for increases had been manifested in Vancouver, where outsiders had been brought in to take the place of the union men.

Ald. Langley followed in the wake of the previous speaker with similar arguments. He thought the present agitation was merely an attempt to exaggerate the importance of the labor troubles which were taking place in the city and on the mainland at the present time.

The other side of the fence was stoutly represented by Ald. Humber and W. F. Fullerton, Ald. Humber deprecated the niggardly attitude which some people always adopted in regard to labor troubles. He was very keen for the increase to be granted, as he knew more about labor than most of the others present. He also declared that he was paying Chinamen a better wage than the city was giving its own employees, a statement which drew from Ald. H. M. Fullerton the sentimental retort that he (Ald. Humber) should be ashamed of himself for employing Asiatics.

Ald. W. F. Fullerton, in his defence of the request, went into the cost of living in the city and endeavored in this way to justify it. After tabulating the expenses which were bound to be incurred by every laboring man in the city, he contended that $3 did not look very big to him. He did not for a moment imagine that his colleagues thought it unnecessary for the working man to maintain his family in a decent, Christian manner, yet he could not see with them how it was possible for him to do so on less than $3 a day. In regard to the contract argument advanced by Ald. Moresby, he pointed out that according to the terms of the contract the company must pay so much per hour, and not a certain specified figure per day.

What seemed to agitate the mind of Ald. Humber particularly was the attitude of the mayor, so of course he put the matter up to his worship with characteristic frankness. Mayor Morley replied that while he was opposed to increasing the minimum wage to $2.75, he was not averse to paying more in cases where it was found that the man was worth more to the city. As a matter of fact he would not object to fixing the standard rate for standard workmen at $3, but of course he would not increase the minimum to that figure.

As chairman of the streets committee, Ald. Gleason said he had been informed by the foreman that it would be possible to get as many men as they might want at the $2.75 rate. This purely economical reason he blended with the belief that as the contracts had already been let the city ought to keep good faith.

After further discussion the matter was put to a vote, when it was found that Ald. W. F. Fullerton and Humber were the only ones in favor of the increase.

SHOT ON WAY FROM DANCE.

Oron, Me., June 10.—While returning from a dance in the town hall early yesterday Miss Christie Shaw, a young teacher, was shot and seriously injured. A crowd, attracted by the shooting, ran down T. S. Linn, a student at the University of Maine, who is under arrest charged with the shooting. Linn is alleged to have told the sheriff in the presence of several newspaper men that he shot Miss Shaw because she had caused him "mental torture." He said he had known Miss Shaw for four years and two years ago asked her to marry him. She refused. Miss Shaw had done much to assist Linn in his work at the University and the sheriff said he had misinterpreted her kindness. At the hospital it was stated that Miss Shaw would probably recover.

INTERPRETATION OF STANDARDS

STIRRING EVIDENCE IN WORKMAN CASE

Clear Elucidation of Tangled Trial by Witness for Defence

A decidedly peppery witness was heard at the Workman heresy trial, as Dr. Workman's libel action against the Wesleyan Theological College has practically become, when Rev. Ernest Thomas, of Merrickville, was called in rebuttal of the evidence brought up by the College, says the Montreal Star. Rev. Mr. Thomas gave his evidence with a pungent force and original ingenuity which kept the attention of the crowded court room fixed throughout, while his sharp answers frequently moved Judge and court to laughter.

As usual the examination ran the gamut of the various doctrinal details which have become the pivotal points of the case, including Dr. Workman's alleged heretical utterances, and his approval of alleged heresies uttered by Prof. McBride. To all of these Rev. Mr. Thomas gave a spirited denial, not only declaring that he had never heard Mr. Workman say or teach anything contrary to the standards of Methodist doctrine, but that he had heard Prof. McBride's famous lecture, and under the circumstances, found nothing heretical in it either.

He further defended the varieties of thought in the Methodist Church, declaring that the growth of modern lines of historical knowledge and research had led to an evolution of faith, which naturally created shades of opinion, and that if the faith were not strong enough to face the new conditions it would not exist, although he was confident it had the necessary vitality.

Mr. Thomas also made several pointed references to the manner in which the prosecution of Dr. Workman had been conducted, and intimated that if a more liberal spirit had been shown there would never have been any of the present deplorable tangle.

Dr. Workman, himself, was also briefly examined, and denied many of the statements attributed to him, at the same time declaring that the circumstances under which he had been examined by the church authorities reminded him very much of inquisitorial proceedings, he not being allowed to approach or deal with the things at issue as he should.

A large number of divines from the Methodist Conference, now going on, were present, and exhibited a keen interest in the unusual court proceedings.

Rev. Dr. Workman was called in rebuttal, and examined by Mr. Stephens, K. C., as to the meeting of October 24th, 1907, when he was relieved of his professorship.

"They asked me certain questions," said Mr. Workman. "I had read my final statement on September 17, when the board adjourned to consider my statement. But when they met again, instead of considering this the chairman allowed a long written statement to be read with the rejoiner.

"And out of that rejoiner arose a number of questions. It was like an inquisitorial examination. I was not allowed to approach things in my own way or ideal with them as I should. The questions were all taken from this rejoiner, which repeated the things I had answered to the satisfaction of the district conference. The questions came in a peculiar form, and I based my answers on the Scriptures, interpreting under our fifth article. I laid before the libel commission the principle supported by Dr. Burwash, that the Scriptures must interpret the standards, and not the standards the Scriptures.

Mr. Stephens—Did you, in regard to the virgin birth of Christ, tell the committee that it was a matter for further investigation-

"No. My answer is given in my statement of September 17, that I had long regarded the account given in Matthew and Luke as subject for further investigation?

"And when asked was Christ called God, I said I knew of no passage in the New Testiment in which Christ was called God. Then I was asked if I believed in the divinity of Christ, and said yes, I believed in the divinity or deity of Christ as taught in the New Testiment.

"Then I was asked about the physical resurrection, and I replied that was a matter for investigation, since when there were four different opinions in regard to it, as given by the most eminent Methodist authority, who had himself chosen one of these four, and not the commonly accepted one, as to the spiritual Resurrection. I never questioned the fact, and always taught that."

To Judge Weir Dr. Workman said that the question was as to the physical resurrection. He had never doubted the doctrine of the resurrection, and that these things were to be interpreted as matters of experience according to inductive studies of the Scriptures. He had no right to differ from the words of the Discipline, but to interpret them.

Judge Weir—You had the right to interpret them?

Dr. Workman—Yes, I consider that was my duty. It was my duty to interpret the standards and the Scriptures, and there is nothing in the Methodist law to prevent me.

As to this, Dr. Workman said that each individual preacher and teacher must make his interpretation, and he was responsible to his conference, which could accept certain statements as in harmony with the doctrines of the church. "And my conference never interefrred with my standards," he added.

Each conference decided as to the character of the teaching of its own men, the annual conference being the court of final resort.

Mr. Stephens—Did you agree with Prof. McBride that you could no more believe in a miracle than in a Centaur, as has been said?

"No; that is contrary to what I said. I never said I agreed with him on that point."

"Did you ever agree with him on the question of the virgin birth?"

"Absolutely no. I never used the word, and do not believe it should be used."

Judge Weir—"Did you ever say it was a myth, like that of Buddha?"

"No, that was a word put into my mouth in a matter of private conversation. I expressed admiration of Prof. McBride's views regarding evolution, but dissented entirely from his views as to the Scriptures. I stated that in some of our colleges men were trying to expound the theories of evolution, but always along the lines of Theistic evolution."

Several times Mr. R. C. Smith, K. C., had objected to questions and answers put by the court, and at the end of Dr. Workman's examination Mr. Smith had his objections noted, and refused to cross-examine the witness.

Rev. Mr. Thomas, of Merrickville, was then called by Mr. Stephens for rebuttal evidence on behalf of Dr. Workman, who said he had been a member of the Montreal Conference for 21 years.

"Were you a member of the College Board of Governors?" was asked.

"Oh, no," came the reply, with a tinge of irony. "That is not for men of my stamp."

Rev. Mr. Thomas then went on to tell of the growth of the misunderstanding between Dr. Workman and the college, all of which was objected to by Mr. Smith. Mr. Stephens, however, retorted that the evidence for the college took so wide a scope that it would be hard to say what was rebuttal and what was not.

Judge Weir—The main features of the defence are a narration of what Dr. Workman said and what the Church standards and Church law had to say on the same subject. It seems to me you had better stick to that. The point I want to make clear, Mr. Smith, is that you can make what objections you like to questions put by counsel, but not to questions put by the court, and the court will not tolerate any such procedure.

Mr. Smith—I do not object to the court's questions, but do object when the witness in reply goes into irrelevant matter.

Judge Weir—Your opinion will not be allowed in this court. Go on with the case.

Mr. Stephens then started to question the witness as to latitude for development or interpretation of standards of doctrine in the Methodist Church.

"For interpretation of standards there is the ordinary provision," said Rev. Mr. Thomas, "and for development of doctrine there is unlimited provision. With regard to interpretation, the decision of an annual conference is final, and that is the one thing that is considered final in the Methodist Church. That is provided in the Discipline of 1906, par. 116, which says their decision shall be final except in matters of law—there is untramelled freedom of interpretation."

This decision, the witness said, also applied to a professor teaching in a college, who was subject to conference precisely as a minister, the Church recognizing no difference in the form of service. Any member or minister who knew of false doctrine being taught was bound to lay a charge before the chairman of his district, when a trial would be had before a court of ministers, and the conference was the final court, with absolute authority as to whether teachings were in conformity with the Discipline. Complaints could only be made to this court through the proper authority.

"And what is the relation of the Board of Governors of the College to the Church as a body?" asked Mr. Stephens.

"It is a corporate servant of the corporate body known as the Methodist Church."

"And is it subject to the Church in everything it does?"

"It should be, but it is not, although its charter makes it subject." (Laughter.)

Proceeding, Rev. Mr. Thomas said that the Discipline of the Methodist Church especially forbade the making of charges against ministers except to the proper authorities, forbidding members of the Church from speaking evil of "magistrates or ministers," and if anyone persisted in so doing he might be expelled.

The examination then branched to Wesley's Notes, which, the witness said, in the authorized version was a standard of the Church.

Mr. Stephens—Does the authority of Mr. Wesley's notes forbid any interpretation of the Articles of Faith, or require literal adherence?"

"No, it does not demand literal adherence, or it would forbid any other phraseology, because using other phrases to describe a thing is interpretation. Conference must determine whether the other phrases are compatible or not."

"Is it not a fact that there are different views in the Methodist Church as to the interpretation of the Articles of Faith?"

"Oh, I think we have seen that pretty well established here in this case," retorted the witness. "It is well known; in fact, it is notorious. But I do not know of any person in the Methodist Church ministry who, in my judgment, questions the contents of the standards or doubts them."

"Do you know anyone who literally adheres to them?"

"Well, I never met with such an experience," replied Rev. Mr. Thomas, amidst laughter.

Mr. Stephens—Do you consider that when Dr. Workman says that account of the Virgin Birth of Christ is traditional rather than historical that that violates a fundamental article of the Christian Faith?"

Judge Weir—You had better apply that to Methodist, not to the whole Christian faith.

Rev. Mr. Thomas—There is no provision of the Methodist Church which pronounces any opinion as to the literary nature of the document (the 4th Gospel). You ask whether the account is drawn from history or tradition. I do not believe there is anything in the standards of the Methodist Church which approaches the question.

"The origin of the account given in this Gospel concerning the virgin birth of Christ," said Mr. Thomas, "is purely a literary question, whether it came from written documents or from the general faith of the Church, but of course every scholar has his own opinion."

Mr. Stephens—Would it be contrary to the standards of the Methodist Church to say with regard to the nature of the body of Christ at the Resurrection that it was a matter about which there was difference of opinion and there might be further investigation?

Mr. Thomas—I think any contrary view would be opposed to the standards. It is considered a difficult question, even in Wesley's Notes.

Judge Weir—Do the standards say anything about a physical or literal Resurrection?

"I do not recollect any such phrase, but St. Paul says the natural and physical comes first and afterwards that which is spiritual. Wesley defines the body as that proper to the individual, but not necessarily the old body."

Mr. Stephens—Is is not a fact that St. Paul taught quite clearly that it was a spiritual body which arose?

"I think that myself, but in view of the statements here of experts who cannot see that I cannnot say that the matter is clearly taught." (Laughter.)

"Would you consider the words of the article so clear that they are not open to interpretation?"

"I think they are so obscure that I do not think any ten men could agree, where they touch upon the 'perfection of human nature.' It all depends upon your conception of the perfection of human nature, and leaves the matter open a hundred different ways."

Mr. Stephens—Now as to the burning question of Christ's Divinity. Is it a violation of the standards of the Methodist church to say that there is no passage in the Bible where Christ is called God?

"Why there is no passage in the standards which says there is a single place in the Bible where He is ever called God. I know of no Methodist author who says there is a text in the Bible in which Christ is called God. But I have heard some things brought before this court which I never before heard come from a Methodist minister."

Proceeding, Rev. Mr. Thomas quoted the Methodist Discipline and said that to say Christ was God was to deny the standards of every church in the world. No council of the church had ever sanctioned such an idea.

"If a man tries to minimize the manhood of Christ and say He is God, I will not accept it, because it is only a fragment of the standards and falsifies them. The two ideas, very God and very man, must not be divided. The phrase, 'Christ is God,' is not a Scriptural phrase. It has in the past divided the church and the preface to Wesley's notes requires that it should be forgotten."

Further, Mr. Thomas said this idea was not at variance with the doctrine of the Trinity, since it embraced the Deity of Christ.

Mr. Stephens—Would you say the same of Dr. Workman?

"I have never heard him say anything contrary to the Deity of Christ. But he believes in the humanity of Christ, and that is where the trouble is. If we say Christ is God we make Jesus and God interchangeable terms. Then you say God is dead and buried. To guard against that the church says something else and has guarded against making Christ an interchangeable term with God.

Mr. Stephens asked if any statement made by Dr. Workman as to his teachings was inconsistent with that statement of belief.

"I have never heard," replied Mr. Thomas, "anything in Dr. Workman's statements when in their original setting, and for the audiences for which they were presumed to be prepared was inconsistent with this statement. God is manifold in his manifestations—that is the essence of the Trinity, and that includes the Deity of the Son. It must be remembered that Dr. Workman had to lecture on the fourth Gospel, which teaches the Deity of the Son, but ignores the doctrine of the Virgin birth. Any honest teacher would be compelled to call attention to that startling omission and explain it to his students. That Gospel was written not to give history, but to bring people to belief and salvation, and a teacher must explain why the writer, with his supreme belief in the Deity of Christ, did not mention the Virgin birth. He treats it by saying that while it is not in this supreme fourth Gospel it is found in the other Gospels, and traces it back as part of the 'original tradition.' In the same way the phrase 'The Lamb of God' was brought in later on as a colloquial translation, the phrase being correct in meaning, but being only an equivalent for the original one. The explanation lies along purely literary lines, and has no connection with the doctrines of the church."

Mr. Stephens—In his evidence before the libel committee Dr. Workman said that Christian children were born innocent in Christ, members of the Kingdom of Heaven and born in the image of God—is that incompatible with the Methodist doctrines?

"No. His words are used in a special sense on the ground that sanction is usage, paraphrasing the more archaic words of the discipline 'Heirs of the Kingdom of God.' A child may be born innocent and yet have a heritage of depravity—neither statement alone would give Dr. Workman's view fairly."

"What is the prevailing interpretation of original sin in the Methodist church?"

"I do not know. I never heard it interpreted in those terms in my life." (Laughter).

"How then would you explain it?"

"With some people I would refer them to the standards and let them wriggle it out for themselves. (Laughter.) But with honest seekers I would say that every person starts in not as a separate individual, but as an organic member of the race in which certain perversions are organic—that is present day language."

Mr. Stephens—Are you allowed to use present day language in your church?

"No one has ever challenged me for using it, and I should not mind if they did. Until recently I never heard of using modern equivalents for ancient languages challenged."

"What would you consider the effect of telling students to keep an open mind on certain subjects?"

"If they adhered to it it would teach them to keep an open mind to all the light, confirmation, verification and interpretation they could get. I have done the same all my life. It is possible to keep an open mind and keep your faith. I absolutely deny what has been said that to keep an open mind is to knock the bottom out of the church. It may knock the bottom out of some people's prestige, but that is a very different thing. If people say that by searching for truth you will not find God, I deny it, and declare that by keeping an open mind as a student you see the truth better."

Judge Weir—Is that permissible in the Methodist church?"

"Certainly it is."

Mr. Stephens—Are there two schools of thought in the Methodist church today?

"Oh, there are twenty of all shades and variations. But we all live and work together in the pastorate, and would not have trouble with them if men would keep in the pastorate and not go to college. We must have all types of temperament and phraseology to reach all types of men to win them to Christ."

Judge Weir—But is it customary for a college professor to use different phraseology to that used by a pastor to his congregation?

"I should say yes, because it is a technical department. Unless a professor has students who should not be admitted, he may pre-suppose that they understand such language. That is what all this trouble is about. Take 'tradition.' I have not heard an expert here who has not shown complete ignorance of the theology of the past twenty years in the use of tradition. That word is not used in current literature as it was used by these witnesses.

"In the last twenty years a new problem has arisen. In old days when there were disputes between certain types of Protestantism and Catholicism there was a polemic. But as soon as discussion found the literary origin of the four Gospels it has taken the meaning of the actual faith taught by the early Christians before they were written. So tradition is not opposition to historical, but rather the undefinied faith as distinguished from the defined and authorized faith."

Judge Weir—Then is it not mythology?

"No. Not a single Oxford or Cambridge professor has ever connected the current use of the word tradition with the meaning which the so-called experts who have appeared here gave to it."

Mr. Stephens — In a general way what are the causes of these different schools of thought in the Methodist church?

"First the modern idea of history is a modern invention, the idea of writing history without bias or an axe to grind—that conception is not 100 years old, this with the idea of getting facts and showing their bearing upon each other has created various schools of thought, while the revival of deeper philosophical interpretation has gone even farther, and through this great movement of the thinking world we have to re-state the old faith. If it has vitality it can be re-stated. If it has not vitality enough to live in the New World it will not live, but it has. The variety of schools does not mean a diversity of fundamental views but different viewpoints of approach."

"Has anything in Dr. Workman's position diverged from the fundamentals?"

"I have found nothing, and know of nothing."

As to the famous Prof. McBride's lecture, Rev. Mr. Thomas said he had been there. The lecture was delivered to students from the four theological schools of Montreal as a statement of the problems which science presented to faith, and it was as such that Dr. Workman had expressed his appreciation of it, as did other speakers.

Prof. McBride had said that belief in miracles as an arbitrary suspension of the laws of nature was as impossible as belief in the Centaurs. But it was settled that great personalities could by their influence produce effects upon others which could not be explained by science, and it was to be expected that one who had made so unique an impression on the world as Christ there would be recorded many deeds which could not be paralleled by any other person in history—but which did not involve any suspension of the laws of nature.

Judge Weir—But were any heretical utterances of Prof. McBride approved by Dr. Workman?

Rev. Mr. Thomas — I did not hear any heretical utterances by Prof. McBride. He only stated problems. Nor did I hear any approval by Dr. Workman. He never said the virgin birth was a myth equal to that of Buddah, nor did Prof. Workman, or anything like it. Nor did Prof. McBride give any such account of the Resurrection as that stated by Dr. Scott. Prof. McBride declined to accept the theory of the resuscitation of the atoms of the actual body, and it was not until after Dr. Workman had spoken that he touched upon the theory of the Resurrection.

"And I wish to contradict another statement," concluded Rev. Mr. Thomas. "I understand it was sworn by Dr. Ross that no challenge of the board of governors' action had been taken to the Court of Appeal except on behalf of Dr. Workman. That statement was false, and known to be false. When I challenged the action of the board of governors at the Court of Appeal Dr. Ross challenged my right to be heard because I did not appear for Dr. Workman, but was there as a 'fussy interfering outsider,' any my status was defined as not representing Dr. Workman, but the rights of the Montreal conference. I want it made clear that the action of the board of governors was challenged by an independent authority."

In a very brief cross-examination by Mr. R. C. Smith, on behalf of the Wesleyan Theological College, Rev. Mr. Thomas said he was not sure whether certain appeal from the decision of the board of governors had been taken to the Court of Appeal.

Mr. Smith—Did you not take an appeal?

Mr. Thomas — Not on that ground. I appealed as to his dismissal, not to inquire into his teachings. The other case was a bogus appeal taken by a member of the board of governors.

Mr. Smith—And the Court of Appeal did not sustain your appeal?

"No. For the reason given. The resolution of the governors was first interpreted and then sustained."

Mr. Smith—Then your idea has been overturned by the highest court of your church?"

"You have said that over and over again, but it is not correct. The record is here and it does not sustain your contention."

"But four appeals were taken and all were dismissed?"

"That is true, but only part of the truth."

"But you admit that the standing of the professor is distinguishable from that of the ordinary individual?"

"No. They interpret things anew to get out of difficulties, but there is no difference in standing between a professor and a minister."

This ended the hearing, which will be resumed this morning.

TWO DESPERATE CASES

These Two Men Owe Their Lives to GIN PILLS

Stone in the bladder is a direct result of kidney trouble—one of the results of neglecting the kidneys that have taken cold or are slightly out of order. Mr. Herman and Mr. Lessard, whose letters are given below, were in a bad way until they tried GIN PILLS, which cured their trouble by removing the cause.

There is no other kidney pill anywhere that has the merits of GIN PILLS. Sick and diseased kidneys respond quickly to their treatment. Many a case of incipient Brights or Diabetes has been cured by them. They cleanse, restore and build up the entire urinary tract.

573 James St. North, Hamilton, Ont.

Gentlemen,

Four years ago I was taken down with Inflammation of the Bladder. During the attacks, which occurred more and more frequently, the agony was unbearable, and I became so weak I could not walk across the floor. The doctors could do nothing to relieve or cure me.

My wife sent for a box of GIN PILLS to try and see if they would help me. From the first they did me good—the pain was relieved at once, and the attacks began to come at longer intervals. I continued taking the pills for six weeks, and then, to my surprise and delight, the stone I sent you some time ago came from me and my pain stopped. It is now three years since GIN PILLS cured me. I have had no return of the trouble, and I have not lost a day's work on account of it since.

There is not the slightest doubt that GIN PILLS saved my life. Yours gratefully,

JOHN HERMAN.

Joliette, P. Q.

During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with stone in the Bladder.

He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life.

J. ALBERT LESSARD.

E. H. SOTHERN JULIA MARLOWE

These two distinguished co-stars, the most eminent partnership on the American stage to-day, will appear in "Romeo and Juliet" at the Victoria Theatre on Monday evening. Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe have done more to keep alive interest in the Shakespearean drama on this continent than any other artists of the present day.

Mrs. Fiske, foremost of all living American actresses, will be the chief of the late summer attractions at the Victoria theatre before the opening of the regular season of 1911-12. Mrs. Fiske will be here late in July in her latest play, "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," which was first produced in New York a few months ago and has been acclaimed by the critics as the best vehicle of this great actress in several years. There are several changes in Mrs. Fiske's company this year, but it is still regarded as the foremost collection of players in one company in America.

* * *

The Sothern and Marlowe engagement for Monday evening will be a notable event in what has been by far the best theatrical season the Victoria theatre has ever had. These two stars constitute a notable dramatic partnership, and of late years they have steadfastly devoted themselves to the interpretation of the works of the master of dramatists. Artistically and scenically their productions are almost flawless, and they deserve well of the theatre public.

The divine Sarah has passed by the whole Pacific Northwest. After playing a two-weeks' engagement in San Francisco she apparently went back east. On Tuesday evening of this week she made a farewell appearance in Toronto and on Wednesday evening she was enthusiastically received in Montreal. Her bill on both occasions was Maeterlinck's "Sister Beatrice," preceded by a short curtain-raiser. Madame Bernhardt sails for home from New York on June 22. To a recent interviewer who asked her how long she thought she could remain on the stage Madame replied gravely:

"As long as I am able to portray the roles I am now playing. I will put it more concisely. I will keep on playing as long as I can play 'L'Aiglon.' Ah, that is the touch-pierre, the touchstone. There you have youth, masculine youth, vivacity, energy, life, gayety, sadness, tragedy—everything. So long as I can play 'L'Aiglon' nothing is impossible. So long as I can play 'L'Aiglon' I will remain on the stage."

An ambitious project which is just now being launched is that of the Canadian Theatre Productions Company. In the interior cities and towns of this province and of the northwest provinces generally it has a field which should ensure its success. The company is formed, according to its preliminary prospectus, for the purpose of producing and directing the tours of a series of plays, operas and entertainments, worthy of presentation to the Canadian public. Further, it says:

"Canada, particularly its northwestern portion, is a new field theatrically, and is now invaded by the minor order of theatrical managers from the United States, their sole endeavor being to obtain the greatest financial results, with the least outlay of money and talent. These theatrical managers reduce the size and quality of their companies for a tour of the northwest, and carry scenery that cannot be placed on the smaller stages of that territory. The Canadian theatre-goer pays a higher rate for a seat than the amusement seeker across the line, and receives much less in return.

"The Canadian Theatre Production Co. aims to build up a purely Canadian theatre. At present it will have to import a portion of its talent, but its scenery, costumes, and all accessories will be products of Canada, and the ultimate aim is for the productions to be entirely Canadian. In the meanwhile, Canadian talent, whether in acting or play-writing, will be encouraged and employed wherever possible."

The provisional directors of the company are A. E. Nash, Edmonton; H. Warburton, Victoria; S. Ray Farquharson, Edmonton, and Thomas Whiffen, New York, a well-known actor, son of the English singer, Thomas Whiffen, and of Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, a delightful old lady who is probably the oldest woman in active life on the American stage. Mr. Whiffen has been in the profession for twenty-five years and his practical knowledge in producing will be of great value to the company. The company declares itself absolutely independent of affiliation with theatrical trusts, and to stand for the principle of home rule in Canadian theatricals. So far as this object can be achieved it is heartily to be commended on its stand.

—o—

Sothern and Marlowe—"Romeo and Juliet."

The most delightful and impressive event of the dramatice season, and the one which will insure the largest measure of public benefit—for pure dramatic art is not only one of the finest of diversions, but also one of the greatest educational influences—comes to the Victoria theatre in the engagement of Edward H. Sothern and Miss Julia Marlowe for one performance of Shakespearean drama, when they present their wonderful production of "Romeo and Juliet."

Mr. Sothern is undoubtedly the foremost actor of the great roles of the master playwright, and Miss Marlowe has easily the leadership of the sisterhood of the English-speaking stage of to-day. The artistic partnership of these splendid stars is the interpretation of the finest plays ever written, and surely should be enough to please the most jaded theatre-goer.

The engagement is an education in itself, for it gives theatre-goers an opportunity to see the world's greatest classic of love presented by America's foremost players. Miss Marlowe's Juliet has already taken its place in American theatrical history. Perhaps no other actress has the charm and beauty of appearance, the youth, innate talent and experience to so visualize and portray Shakespeare's most popular heroine; while Mr. Sothern, whose success as a romantic lover, as Romeo, should give to the idyllic love romance a new meaning. And their impressive performance should live long in the memory of those fortunate enough to see it.

The company, with its auxiliary organization, numbers nearly 100 members, and eleven cars are required to transport the massive scenic outfit and the players. In the supporting company are Frederick Lewis, Sydney Mather, Rowland Buckstone, William Harris, Malcolm Bradley, Albert Howson, Eric Blind, John Taylor, Frederick Roland, Alma Kruger, Lenore Chippendale, Mrs. Woodward, Norah Lamison and others.

Owing to the elaborate nature of the performance, the curtain will rise at 8 o'clock sharp, of which fact play-goers are asked to take special cognizance.

"The Lily."

David Belasco's dramatic sensation of the season, is coming here from Mr. Belasco's own theatre, New York, with Nance O'Neil and Charles Cartwright—the famous Belasco company, and presented exactly the some as during its run of an entire year in New York city.

"The Lily" is a play in four acts, adapted from the French of Pierre Wolff and Gaston Leroux by Mr. Belasco, and as a piece of dramatic literature will endure for many years, for it is a play of ideas as well as drama.

"The Lily" finds its name in a class of women well recognized in France, but little known as a special type in America; the women who have been denied the joys of love and matrimony, simply to appease the thread-worn tradition of sex. In France, everything is sacrificed for the advancement of the sons, while in this country it is for the sake of the daughters. Around this sex distinction is woven a drama that, for dramatic intensity and absorbing interest, the like has not been seen within the last decade. Mr. Belasco, with the consistency that has characterized his big productions in the past, will, in addition to sending his original company, send the massive Belasco production intact.

Nance O'Neil never gave a greater exposition of her marvellous powers than she does of "The Lily," Odette; a scholarly, sincere and artistic delineation colored by physical vigor and emotional intensity. Charles Cartwright, the eminent English actor, plays the father with a distinction and repose commensurate with his reputation. Julie Dean, Alfred Hickman, Oscar Eagle, Elliott Dexter, Ethel Grey Terry, Antionette Walker, Wm. C. Holden, Douglas Paterson, S. G. Norsetrup, M. Rossi, Robert Robson and others formulate what is pronounced to be the greatest dramatic organization in America.

"The Lily" will be presented at the Victoria theatre on Saturday, June 17.

Coming With Chevalier.

After considerable negotiation, Frederic Shipman secured Edna Blanche Showalter, the American soprano, for the Albert Chevalier tour of Western Canada. Miss Showalter is only 22, but she has already been acclaimed by musical critics as the "Melba of Tomorrow." Her rise has been remarkably rapid, for a few years ago she was absolutely unknown to the musical world.

How one opportunity leads to another is exemplified in Miss Showalter's career. Her first opportunity came when she was engaged for the grand opera, "Paoletta," produced at Cincinnati under the auspices of the Ohio valley exposition. Miss Showalter alternated the leading role with Mme. de Pasquali, of the Metropolitan opera, and scored instant and complete success. Walter Damrosch, the great conductor, heard her and immediately engaged her as soloist with the Damrosch orchestra for its 1910-11 tour.

Henry W. Savage, the far-seeing impressario, in search of a prima donna to sing the leading role in his English production of Puccini's "Girl of the Golden West," heard Miss Showalter's exquisite voice, and, declaring her to be the ideal "Minnie," has secured her as prima donna for what will easily be one of the biggest events of next season—the first English production of that opera. Miss Showalter will first be heard in Victoria at the Victoria theatre, where the Chevalier engagement of two nights opens on June 22, and will be a feature of Coronation Day festivities.

Empress-Grand Theatre.

Five straight months at the London Hippodrome should qualify an act for any world circuit, and consequently the Four Londons who star at the Empress-Grand next week, were eagerly sought when they reached America, but all-comers were turned aside because the S. and C. circuit had done the necessary booking for a first American tour before the Londons left England. They are now on their way over that route with one of the most daring and beautiful aerial acts ever seen on that circuit. There are two very charming and agile women in the act, and it is said that they are not a bit less clever than the two male performers. For the many who fancy athletic vaudeville the Londons promise a rare treat.

Al. White's Four Dancing Bugs coming along with their extraordinary assortment of jig steps, which means that there is something in the nature of a treat in store for that very large division of vaudeville patronage which fancies the clog and the eccentric fling. The Bugs were over the Sullivan and Considine tour eighteen months ago, and proved so popular a card that they earned a return engagement, which they are now filling. They show in nearly every line of stage dancing excepting, of course, the classic, and their work in the soft and hard shoe clogs and bucks is really extraordinary.

Perrin Somers and Tillie Storke have in "Jackson's Honeymoon," a first-class laughing playlet. It is the old story of the "Newlyweds" on their honeymoon and the asinine friend who, as a practical joker, tries to stir things up at long distance. It is a combination that never fails to win and it is particularly effective in the hands of these two capable players.

Over at the east they are beginning to call acts of the sort that Pearl and Roth are putting across "Rathskeller Acts." Just why is not clearly evident, except that they are light, airy and always amusing, just the sort of entertainment folks like when they are out to forget their troubles or rest tired brains. Pearl and Roth have a title for their sketch but absolutely nothing in the way of plot. They call it "Forcing an Opportunity," probably for the reason that they create an opportunity to get a whole lot of music, patter and song out of their systems and give the audience all the opportunity necessary to laugh and make merry generally.

Caron and Herbert are doing a very "usual" vaudevile act in a very unusual way. They are a combination of straight and eccentric athletes with a line of work that is not less than marvelous, yet so pronounced is their fun-making that the quality of their serious work is at times almost obscured in the laughter they provoke. Herbert is the comedian of the duo and his falls, while almost suicidal, are extraordinarily funny. Caron's straight work is so clean-cut and at the same time so difficult as positively to be delightful.

CURED OF DRINK BY SIMPLE REMEDY

A Devoted Wife Helps Her Husband to a Cure Through Samaria Prescription.

Mrs. S., of Trenton, was in despair. A loving father and a careful provider when sober—her husband had gradually fallen into drinking habits, which were ruining his home, health and happiness. Drink had inflamed his stomach and nerves and created that unnatural craving that kills conscience, love, honor and breaks all family ties.

But read her letter:

"I feel it my duty to say a few words about your Tablets. As you are aware, I sent and got a bottle, thinking I would try them in secret. My husband had only taken them a week when he told me he was going to Port Arthur for the summer, so I had to tell him all about the Tablets. He said he would take them just the same, so I sent and got the second bottle for fear one would not be enough. He writes me saying that he had taken the contents of both bottles, and he feels splendid, does not care for drink. In fact, he has not taken any liquor from the first of my giving it to him. I feel I cannot say too much in favor of your wonderful Remedy.

"Mrs. S——, Trenton, Ont."

Government Street, Next to Victoria Brewery

Every housewife knows that newly made flour does not give so satisfactory results as flour that has been aged for some time. Why it does not is rather difficult to explain—but flour that has been aged just right will make a larger, better-flavoured loaf of bread than flour that has not been aged.

We are careful about SEAL OF ALBERTA. We watch this point. You can be absolutely certain that the flour you are getting is just right, if you insist on SEAL OF ALBERTA.

The essentials of successful bread making are:—

CALGARY MILLING CO. LTD. MAN'F'D FROM SELECTED HARD WHEAT CALGARY ALTA

(1) Good bread flour—preferably SEAL OF ALBERTA—the Faultless Flour.

(2) Good Yeast.

(3) Dough of the right consistency.

(4) Control of the temperature at all stages.

(5) To remember that soft flours are intended for pastry, not for bread making. If you want a pastry flour ask for Dandy Pastry, but if a bread flour, "SEAL OF ALBERTA."

(6) To avoid drying out of the surface at all stages, as this makes a dark streak through the baked loaf.

Remember the name—Seal of Alberta

"A Most Valuable Food"

At a time when the preparation of artificial foodstuffs is receiving more attention than ever before, and when new forms of easily assimilable fat to take the place of codliver oil are being frequently brought to the notice of the medical profession, it is desirable that some of the older forms of administering natural fats should not be lost sight of. Among natural fats, butter easily takes first place for nutritive value, and when combined with a suitable soluble carbohydrate, a most valuable food is produced.

The BUTTER SCOTCH which Messrs. Callard & Bowser (Duke's Road, Euston Road, W. C.) have prepared for fifty years, is such an article, which has the great advantage of being palatable, so palatable, in fact, that children are more likely to need restraining from excess than any persuading to take it. This BUTTER SCOTCH is stated to contain 11.7 per cent. of fat and 79.3 per cent. of sugar, and the results of an analysis which we have made recently of a specimen substantially confirm these figures; further chemical examination of the fat extracted showed it to be genuine butter fat. This confection can therefore be recommended, not only as a harmless sweetmeat, but also as a very useful addition to the diet in suitable cases.

his possession. He resisted, then fled and at a point near Euclid avenue and East Twenty-third street, is alleged to have fired on his pursuers, wounding one. His arrest followed quickly. The street was crowded.

Fight Pistol Duel.

Chicago, June 10.—Two alleged labor "gun men," John Costello, alias "Jack the Ripper," and George Hudson, fought a pistol duel at the corner of Clark and Illinois streets early to-day and both received injuries which probably will prove fatal. The men had previously quarrelled and when they met on the street to-day they opened fire. Each man was struck by two bullets, both of them close to the heart.

Seven Indicted.

Seven so-called labor-sluggers were indicted by the grand jury here yesterday on charges of assault with attempt to kill, growing out of recent sluggings and gun fights in the factional war between the United Association of Plumbers and Steam Fitters and the International Association of Steam Fitters. The bonds of the indicted men were fixed at $25,000 each.

DAUGHTER ELOPES.

New York, June 10.—Helen Whittier Andrus, daughter of Representative John E. Andrus, multi-millionaire and known as the richest man in congress, eloped with and married Henry Omer Hobbs, a floorwalker in a department store at Springfield, Mass.

HONORED BY OXFORD.

Oxford, June 10.—The degree of D. C. L. was conferred to-day upon Premier Ward, Premier Botha and Premier Morris.

FOUR PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Saw Through Five Iron Bars With Case Knife.

Syracuse, N. Y., June 10.—Four men, two of whom were sentenced yesterday to the Auburn penitentiary, sawed their way out of the court house jail early to-day. They are James Hammond, John Jordan, Charles Green and Albert Adams. The men sawed through five ¾-inch bars with a case knife passed from the cells into the first corridor, and from that into the outer corridor through openings about 8 by 12 inches. To get out, some of them had to leave part of their clothing behind. The local police and county authorities are scouring the country, but no trace of the men has been found.

TO STUDY VOLCANO.

San Francisco, Cal., June 10.—Frank A. Perret sails to-day for Honolulu to watch the famous volcano Kilauea in action. The expedition he heads was organized by the Volcanic Research Society in conjunction with the United States weather bureau, the Carnegie institute and the Massachusetts institute of technology. Mr. Perret hopes that the knowledge gained from the study of the Hawaiian volcano will enable scientists to forecast earthquakes and seismic disturbances with accuracy. Specially prepared scientific instruments will be used by the expedition. Increased activity is expected from Kilauea within the next few weeks.

WOMAN COMMITS SUICIDE.

Calgary, June 10.—An unknown woman was yesterday afternoon seen to wade into the Bow river about half a mile west of Louis Bridge, plunge into the swiftly running water and disappear. A man named Anderson, who was watering his horses within a short distance of the spot where the unknown committed what would appear to be deliberate suicide, raised an alarm. The cries of Anderson were heard by J. Phillips, who immediately reported the affair to the fire station. Up to an early hour this morning the search for the body was without success. The river is fairly high and muddy.

MOURNED AS DEAD.

Man Whose Death Was Reported From Prince Rupert is Living in Vancouver.

Woodstock, Ont., June 10.—George E. Colebert, who was reported dead, has written to the Sentinel-Review from Vancouver protesting that he is very much alive. Some time ago his mother-in-law, Mrs. W. K. Murphy, West Zorrah, received word from the west that he was dead. She informed his wife, who straightway came to live with her. Colebert left Vancouver for Prince Rupert last fall, and his death was reported from Prince Rupert.

The letter received says Colebert never reached Prince Rupert, as on account of bad weather he was kept in camp for several weeks, when he returned to Vancouver. Colebert will probably come east for his wife.

Imperfect Kidney Action Causes Rheumatism

Rheumatism with its kindred ailments—Lumbago, Wry Neck, Neuralgia, etc., usually results from lodgments of uric acid in the joints and muscles.

Now the chief function of the kidneys is to properly filter this poison from the blood.

Only when they fail to do this is Rheumatism probable.

Kidney weakness starts in various ways. A sudden chill, after perspiring freely, sometimes settles in the kidneys—or an unusual strain may cause it.

Poisons which should be filtered out of the system are pumped back into the blood, causing Uric Acid, the real cause of Rheumatism, Lumbago, Wry Neck, Neuralgia, etc.

In the early stages Nyal's Stone Root Compound will stop it.

Will start your kidneys working properly so that the Uric Acid is reabsorbed and eliminated.

Away goes your Rheumatism with it.

Perhaps these early warning twinges have passed unheeded, and your Rheumatism has become deep seated.

Muscles all snarled up in knots as it were.

Then you'll need Nyal's Rheumatic Cure.

Ask your own druggist about these remedies.

His opinion is worth while.

Sold and guaranteed by D. E. Campbell, John Cochrane, Dean & Hiscocks, F. W. Fawcett, Messrs. Hall & Co., W. Jackson & Co., F. J. Williams, Victoria.

HINDU HANGS HIMSELF.

Goldendale, Wash., June 10.—Deder Singh, a Hindu, committed suicide Tuesday at Lyle by hanging himself to a rafter in the section house with a piece of cotton rope. By permission of the coroner the body was cremated by his countrymen, with the rites of their race. The funeral pyre was erected on the banks of the Columbia. Two cords of wood and ten gallons of kerosene were used. The ashes of the dead Hindu were scattered on the waters of the Columbia.

AMBASSADOR NOT NAMED.

Berlin, June 10.—The foreign office denied absolutely to-day the report that Washington's proposal for a successor to Dr. Hill, the American ambassador, had been deferred at Berlin. Neither the Emperor nor the government, it was stated, could have expressed themselves unfavorably as no name has been presented yet.

CZAR TO VISIT WARSHIPS.

Stockholm, June 10.—The week's visit at the Swedish capital ended, the second division of the United States Atlantic fleet sailed this morning from Kronstadt. The ships are due at the Russian port to-morrow and will be visited by Emperor Nicholas. The Emperor also will receive Admiral Badger and the fleet officers in the palace at St. Petersburg.

What is wrong with most of us, says the London Daily Dispatch, is that we have allowed ourselves to grow up.

LINEN COAT SUIT.

Natural tone linen was used for an attractive coat suit put together on above lines. Note the cut of skirt, which has the effect of a tunic, but these pieces are stitched tight to the skirt all around. The coat is unique in its general design and especially good for a long-waisted woman. It depends entirely on heavy stitching for decoration.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By Ruth Cameron

Imagine a big power of electricity stored up somewhere.

Imagine a lot of pulleys and motors ready to be moved by that electricity.

And then imagine a transmitter that will not work at all sometimes, and sometimes only feebly, so that most of the time the electricity is useless and the pulleys and motors are idle, or else moved by other stores of electricity. That's a description of some people.

The electricity is their store of personality.

The motor and pulleys are other minds ready to be moved by the electricity.

And the transmitter that doesn't work right is a confused and unattractive manner and way of speaking.

Everyone must know such people who suffer daily from the handicap of a bad transmitter.

Just recently my attention has been drawn to a particularly unfortunate case.

She is a young girl of education and refinement. She has, I think, a very good mind. The electricity of personality, you see, is far from lacking. But the transmitter is very, very bad.

In the first place her manner of speech is so hurried and nervous and confused that people often do not understand her. Naturally that prejudices them against her. People who talk with her sometimes have to guess at half she says, and consequently make mistakes which make them appear and feel awkward. And no one likes to appear awkward. One is prejudiced against the person who makes one appear awkward, just as one likes the person who helps one to appear interesting and clever.

Furthermore, the confusion which this girl causes apparently reacts to confuse her, and she repeats herself and breaks the thread of her story by hanging a great weight of irrelevant detail upon it. She is a victim of that unfortunate habit of which I have spoken before of stopping in the middle of a would-have-been interesting account to decide "was it Tuesday or Wednesday. It must have been Tuesday, because I went to Ruth's on Wednesday. No, that was Thursday. I guess it was Wednesday, after all," or some similarly unimportant and uninteresting detail.

Sometimes when I go about with this girl and hear her bore and repel people when she might so easily interest and attract them, if only the transmitter were better, I could almost weep.

Partly for that wasted store of personality and partly for the suffering she endures because of her unpopularity.

And there are so many like her.

If the parents of this girl would only take her habit of rapid speech in hand, and do all they can to correct it, even employing an elocution teacher to give her proper exercises; if someone who knows her well enough would only talk to her frankly about her way of making interesting things uninteresting—the whole aspect of her life might be changed.

As it happens this girl does not have to make her way in the world, but what a tremendous handicap a poor transmitter is to a man or woman who does have to make a living. It divides their efficiency and their chance of success by at least two and probably four.

How much unhappiness and inefficiency, how many failures, how many tears and how many bruised hearts might be avoided if only families and close friends, instead of letting things drift, would frankly point out their faults to people thus handicapped and help them to overcome them.

FRENCH MODEL IN FOULARD.

One can tell at a glance that this model was designed by a French modiste, and it is exactly suited for a tall, slim figure. The skirt is plain blue satin foulard and the tunic and shortwaisted bodice is same shade, dotted with small black squares. The joining of bodice and tunic is made under an upstanding frill of black satin, which is also used on bottom of tunic and around skirt at hem depth. Sleeves and round neck are finished with a band of cream lace insertion.

INCORPORATION OF DUNCAN FAVORED

Resolution Passed at Meeting of Property Owners — Local Improvements

Duncan, June 9.—A large and representative gathering of property owners of Duncan met in the council chamber to discuss matters of interest to the town. The question of sprinkling the streets was thoroughly discussed and a committee was appointed to take the necessary steps to arrange for this being done, and also to interview the council as to the many requirements of the town. The matter of incorporating Duncan was then taken up and a resolution was passed almost unanimously, endorsing the proposal to incorporate, there being only one dissentient.

Mr. Dickie, the chairman, in opening the meeting said it had been called to discuss the advisability of spending a little money to make the town presentable to improve the appearance of the principal streets by a general clearing up and adding to the comfort of everybody using them by abating the dust nuisance by sprinkling. He said that everyone would benefit by such steps being taken, and he was quite willing to subscribe towards the expense of any work done in this direction, but he left it to the meeting to suggest the best methods to be pursued.

Mr. Mutter said that he thought it was most unreasonable the way the town had been held up in regard to incorporation. He moved that a committee be appointed to approach the council on the subject of the meeting, this being seconded by Mr. Whidden, and the following gentlemen were unanimously elected: Messrs. Dwyer, Dickie, W. Gidley, A. Peterson, J. Islay Mutter, J. Rutledge, Marsh, Kibler and Cancellor.

Mr. Dickie expressed the opinion that the side streets should be watered as well as the main street; there was dust blowing from these streets and there were business premises on them and the owners of this property were entitled to consideration.

Kenneth Duncan was asked to explain the situation as regards the steps taken towards incorporation. He said that petitions were presented and signed by the leading property owners of the town, but that the council had appeared to obstruct the carrying out of the wishes of the petitioners by putting obstacles in the way which might have easily been removed. However, the council were now not offering any hindrances, but the petitions and preliminary proceedings would have to be repeated owing to the new assessment roll.

A resolution was then passed "That in the opinion of the meeting it was now time to take steps to incorporate the town of Duncan, and Messrs. Mutter and Duncan be empowered to take all necessary steps towards incorporation, and to receive remuneration for time spent in so doing."

This resolution was carried practically unanimously, there being only one dissentient.

BOUNDARY SURVEY.

Field Party Begins Work With Camp At Portland City.—Will Occupy Three Seasons.

Stewart, June 9.—One of the parties of the Dominion Government Survey Department, who, under Dr. King, the chief astronomer of Canada, are engaged in delineating the Alaskan boundary, is now at work. This party, which consists of the following: J. H. Mackie, in charge; Messrs. R. G. Evans, J. M. Bates, C. W. Hayward, F. M. Badham, W. Bond, H. McLelland and B. Dodds, moved out into the field some days ago and are now encamped at Portland City, two miles from here. Their work will be to carry a series of triangles from the original base extension down to the mouth of the inlet. Beacons will be established on all points both of the main and secondary triangulations, and a very accurate topographical survey will be made for two miles on either side of the canal. It is estimated that the field work of this portion of the international boundary will occupy three seasons. The work of delineating the international boundary throughout its length is carried out by alternating parties of Canadian and United States surveyors, and each party is accompanied by a representative from the other nation. The American representative with Mr. Mackie's party has not yet arrived.

The work of the geological survey in the Portland Canal district will be continued this year by the Dominion Government.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL.

Coroner's Jury Investigated Death of Child in Vancouver—Driver Was Not to Blame.

Vancouver, June 9. — "Accidental death" was the verdict of the coroner's jury at the inquest over the remains of the late Edna May, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Price, 507 Hastings street, who was run over by an automobile and instantly killed on Monday evening. Every one of the eye-witnesses stated that the automobile was running very slowly at the time of the accident, and that no blame could be attached to the driver.

It was shown that the little girl who was with her brother and another little girl were trying to cross the street in front of the auto. While the boy and the other girl passed the auto, little Edna was knocked down, one of the rear wheels going over her body.

Dr. Wilson reported that the death was due to a fracture and dislocation of the spine. E. C. Wilson of 2715 Fifth avenue west, the owner of the car, and his son, who was driving the auto at the time of the accident, were present at the inquest and gave evidence.

MURDERED BY SOME PERSONS UNKNOWN

Verdict In Whonnoch Shooting Case—Probert Made Plucky Fight for Life

Vancouver, June 9.—A verdict of wilful murder against some person unknown, was rendered by the coroner's jury at the inquest on the death of D. E. G. Probert, who was fatally wounded at Whonnock on May 26. So far no trace of the murderer has been found. A suspect held by the provincial police could not be identified by T. C. Crowe, the man who was with Probert at the time he was shot. Crowe said the murderer was altogether a bigger man, and the suspect was released.

The story told by Crowe at the inquest showed that Probert had made a plucky fight for his life. Crowe said that about four o'clock in the morning he was lying awake when he heard footsteps outside his door.

"I called out 'Probert' but there was no answer," said Crowe. "Suddenly some one grasped the knob of the door and pulling it violently tore it open. He bust into my room, and pointing a gun at me as I lay in bed ordered me to throw up my hands and tell him where the keys of the cash drawer were.

"I said that I was not connected with the store and he had better find some one else. He threatened me and then ordered me to find the other man. I got out of bed and at the point of the gun walked into Probert's room. The deceased got up in bed and said, 'Whats up.' Then he was ordered to throw up his hands.

"He did this first and then lay back in bed again. At the second command he threw back the clothes and leaped towards the intruder, grasping the barrels of the gun in both hands and kicking violently. I closed with the stranger and we had a desperate struggle. Probert was pulled out of bed and just then the burglar threw me back against the door of the room. As I gained my balance the both barrels of the gun went off with a roar and I looked to see Probert bending over the end of the shotgun in agony. I ran outside and over to Mrs. West's for aid. Probert followed me, alternately running and then bending over with pain. When I asked him how he was all he said was 'I'm shot.'"

DISTRICT MILITARY CAMP.

Kamloops, June 9.—The first district military camp to be held in the province opened here under promising auspices, and with the sound of reville the ground assumed a busy aspect. The advance party from the permanent corps at Work Point had everything in readiness for the different units as they marched into camp Sunday evening. The special train conveying the 18th Field Ambulance from Vancouver, and the 104th Regiment from New Westminster, Cloverdale and Chilliwack, arrived sharp on time at 6 o'clock in the evening, and the men immediately proceeded to camp in the agricultural grounds, which, although rather dusty, is a splendid camp ground.

Colonel Wadmore, D. O. C., is in command. He has on his staff: District assistant adjutant and quartermaster-general, Captain F. W. L. Moore, D. S. A., M. D., 11; camp engineer, Captain W. P. Lindsay, R. C. E.; senior army service corps officer, Major H. Swinford, C. A. S.; administrative medical officer, Major McTavish, 18th F. A.; ordnance officer, sub-conductor W. Prevost, C. O. C.; paymaster, Captain J. F. Faulks, P. M., M. D., 11; musketry instructor, Major Hulme, 6th D. C. O. R.; intelligence officer, Lieutenant R. H. Lee, C. O. G.; signalling officer, Lieutenant Melhuish, 6th O. C. O. R.

The units in camp are: The British Columbia Horse, stationed at Kamloops, Vernon, Colstream and Merritt; the 104th Regiment of Infantry from New Westminster, Cloverdale and Chilliwack; the 18th Field Ambulance from Vancouver, and the Independent infantry Company from Armstrong.

The actual work of training the men is attended to by a staff of non-commissioned officers from the permanent staff, who are as follows: Camp Sergeant-Major, Q. M. S. I. Charles Paterson; infantry instructors, Col.-Sergeant Inst. A. Youngman, Sergt. E. Pex; cavalry instructors, Sergeant Chartres and Sergeant King of Strathcona's Horse, Winnipeg; musketry instructor, Staff-Sergeant W. H. Youhill, 6th D. C. O. R.; Sergeant-Major W. Dawson; signalling, Corp. Dickenson; instructor to the 18th Field Ambulance, Sergt. J. Glass.

MORE BOY SCOUTS.

Summerland, June 9.—At a meeting of representative citizens held recently a "governing council" for the purpose of organizing and supervising a company of Boy Scouts was formed. The officers follow. Col. Cartwright, hon. president; Rev. F. W. Pattison, chairman; C. A. Marshall, secretary-treasurer; Rev. F. W. Hardy, chaplain; C. N. Borton, scoutmaster; A. W. McLeod, adjutant.

Immediately steps were taken to form a local campany and a meeting of boys and others interested was well attended, a company of some thirty-eight boys between the ages of ten and eighteen years was formed.

ENDS HIS LIFE.

Vancouver, June 9.—Fred Wallis, a bartender, committed suicide at the Leland hotel by cutting his throat with a razor. Wallis was found in the bathroom, where he had locked himself in, and everything pointed to the deed having been carefully planned. From the appearance of the body when it was discovered, the man had been dead for some time. He had evidently locked himself in the room on Tuesday night. Dr. Jeffs was notified and was of the opinion that it was a case of suicide. Wallis was employed in the city and had been staying in the hotel for some days.

Although only 15 minutes from Goldstream station, the shooting including deer and pheasants is abundant, the rough land making a splendid sheep run; a stream runs through the property which is close to two lakes. Close to school and the new Loxton station and the price, $50 per acre, is only a quarter that asked for adjoining land. $4,000 cash, balance on time. This is a gentleman's farm as well as a commercial proposition. There are two trains daily to Goldstream and the journey only occupies half an hour. I am sole agent.

Among the Churches

BAPTIST.

Emmanuel.

Sunday Services.—The Rev. W. Stevenson will preach on Sunday, his subject being in the morning, "Nature as an Aid to the Religious Life," and in the evening on "The Scapegoat."

Young People's Union.—On Monday evening the B. Y. P. U. will hold a social gathering. Last Monday there was a good attendance to hear the pastor's address on Fra Paolo Sarpi and many of those present were surprised to hear the claim made for Sarpi that he was the original discoverer of the circulation of the blood and not Harvey the English physician.

First Church.

To-morrow's Services.—The pastor, Rev. John B. Warnicker, will preach to-morrow morning on "Belated Myrrh and Aloes," and the subject of the evening sermon will be "The Appeal of the Church to Men."

Honorary Members' Meeting.—The regular meeting of the young people on Monday evening is expected to be unusually interesting. It will be "honorary members night" and a large number of the former members and older church friends are looked for. Alfred Few will address the meeting on the B. Y. P. U. topic, "Why Do I Love Christ?"

Measuring Party.—The ladies of the Philathea class are planning a unique programme for their social gathering next Wednesday night in the church. It is to be a "measuring party," with admission according to length. The decorative scheme will be carried out largely with the class colors, and during the evening dainty refreshments will be dispensed to those attending. The proceeds will go towards the class furnishing fund.

Coronation Service.—Sunday, June 18, will be especially observed by the church with a "coronation service" in honor of King George V. In the morning there will be a combined service of the church and Sunday school, with a special coronation sermon preached by Pastor Warnicker. Rev. Dr. Reid, known and beloved for many years in this city, will adress the members of the school and assist in the service. In the evening Mr. Warnicker will preach a patriotic sermon on "Canada, the land of the Maple Leaf." There will be appropriate music from the union choirs of the church and Sunday school under the direction of the choir leader, Joseph Muir.

METHODIST.

Metropolitan.

Choir Concert.—Next Tuesday evening, the choir of Metropolitan church, assisted by a chorus of Sunday school children, and the Sunday school orchestra, will render the sacred cantata, "David the Shepherd Boy." Those who are taking the leading parts are well known soloists of the city and the cantata is under the direction of J. M. Morgan, so that there is no doubt the event will be a musical treat. Every preparation has been made to ensure the success of the event and the full chorus has been carefully trained for every part. The cantata is to be given in aid of the new organ fund.

Church Bulletin.—A very neat bulletin is now handed to worshippers in Metropolitan church. The bulletin contains the order of service for the day and the announcements for the week following. The publication of this has been made possible by the generosity of a member of the church.

Centennial.

Sunday Services.—Rev. A. N. Miller, of James Bay Methodist church will preach in Centennial church to-morrow morning. Mr. Miller is exchanging pulpits with Rev. J. H. Wright, who is at present supplying for the pastor, Rev. A. Henderson.

James Bay.

Epworth League.—There was a very interesting meeting of the Epworth League last Monday evening when Rev. Mr. Hinder, a missionary from India addressed a large gathering of the members on his work in that country. Next Monday evening a missionary from Madagascar will address the league and another interesting evening is expected.

Ladies' Aid.—The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society was held this week and it was decided that as the next meeting took place on July 4, that it should take the form of a picnic at the Gorge.

Esquimalt.

Opening Services.—Rev. Thomas Keyworth will preach his first sermons as pastor of the Esquimalt Methodist church to-morrow. The morning service will commence at 10:30 and the evening at 7. The services will be held in Heald's hall, which has been comfortably fitted up for the purpose.

Sunday School and Bible Class.—In connection with the services a Sunday school has been organized and will meet to-morrow afternoon in Heald's hall. There is an adult Bible class also, and that organization starts off with a membership of fourteen.

Shawnigan.

Sunday Services.—Rev. B. Black, who has lately been appointed pastor of the Shawnigan Mission, has commenced services as follows: Cowichan Bench, 11 a. m.; Mill Bay, 3 p. m.; Shawnigan Lake (Koenig's), 7 p. m.

PRESBYTERIAN.

St. Andrew's.

Sunday Services.—Rev. Principal MacKay, of Westminster hall, Vancouver, will preach in St. Andrew's church to-morrow both morning and evening. In the morning the sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered.

WORLD LEAGUE FOR PEACE.

Results of action taken at the Lake Mohonk Conference just held, and at meetings of ministers held in New York, will be close co-operation with ministers of Germany, Great Britain, the United States and Canada in a "World League for World Peace." Prominent ministers here from England and Germany insist that the United States must lead, in part because the proposition for the Court of Arbitration came first from America, and in part because of American freedom from entangling alliances, political as well as religious. Ministers attending these meetings insist that the churches must be in the forefront, and also that a league if formed must include in its membership foremost laymen as well as ministers.

The present plan is to influence public opinion in support of the arbitration treaties by public meetings, by sermons, and by resolutions to be adopted at religious conferences, official and summer alike, and when such opinion is alert to propose the holding at The Hague of a World Christian Conference designed to bring upon statesmen the influence of Christian sentiment. The date suggested is just previous to the assembling of the Third Peace Conference. The new Peace Building erecting by Mr. Andrew Carnegie has been offered for the purpose.

It is argued that financial interests that profit through the sale of war materials will contest long and vigorously the adoption of the treaties and the founding of the arbitral court. Senates and parliaments will not, it is believed, readily adopt or confirm treaties when offered. It is also argued that treaties with Japan, Germany and Russia must follow those with Great Britain and France, and they being confirmed Christian influence must still be exerted to prevent the building of more battleships and the enlistment of men for armies. Christian men do not think the victory won yet by a good deal.

Emperor William, of Germany, has sent one of his court preachers to America to find out whether he would help the cause if he sent to America a deputation of German preachers. In Europe thus far the chief influence in favor of the treaties has come from the labor people. This is the report made by the Rev. Dr. John Clifford, head of the Baptist World Alliance, Dean Ede, of Worcester, and Pastor Simolelt, of Berlin. Cardial Gibbons for Roman Catholics, and leaders among Jews and all Protestant bodies expressed at Lake Mohonk and New York willingness to co-operate. Some ministers and laymen have membership in the new three-fold Carnegie Peace Foundation plan as just announced. The proposed "World League for World Peace," if formed, will not be auxiliary to the Carnegie plan, but if ministers have their way, will lead the sentiment and the arbitration program. Eminent clergy here at the moment from England and Germany declare their intention to stay until American ministers organize for work.

CATHOLIC GIFTS FOR MISSIONS.

Catholics of the United States continue to increase their gifts to world missions under Catholic auspices. One of the great missionary societies of the world is the Propagation of the Faith, founded in Lyons, France, in 1822. Last year its income was $1,342,000, an increase of $55,000 over the previous year. In spite of political troubles France continues to be the society's source of financial strength, the French people contributing last year $608,000, or practically as large sum as ever. The United States came next, with $268,000, an increase of $21,000 over last year. Catholics of Germany gave last year $151,000, Italy $53,000, the Argentine $45,000, Spain $35,000, and distracted Mexico $34,000. The Archidosese of New York gave a good deal more than a third of the whole sum given by the United States, its offerings being an even $100,000. Boston came next with $29,000, while Baltimore, where are the American headquarters, and where the Cardinal resides, gave only $3,500. The work of the society is very general, covering almost all countries. Its administration involves one novel plan that other societies might well adopt. It is that of first collecting the money and then meeting and distributing it. Most others pledge sums on paper, raise what they can, and often fall into debt.

MARVELS OF SCIENCE.

If you tickle your ankle and your big toe turns upward, or the other toes spread outward, your skull is fractured. Dr. C. G. Chaddock, a member of the visiting staff at the St. Louis, Mo., hospital, has tried his discovery in 275 cases, and has not failed once. If your skull is intact the tickling of the ankle will cause your toes to turn downward and draw close together. There's an exact spot on the ankle where you must tickle yourself to see if there is a hole in your head. This spot, Dr. Chaddock says is a half inch above the sole of the foot on the inside portion of the ankle. Before Dr. Chaddock made his discovery, which is startling the medical world, it was the custom to rub the hands over a man's head in an effort to discover possible fractures. But when patients are taken into the city hospital, Dr. Chaddock tickles their ankles with a little instrument that resembles a pencil. The spot on the ankle is connected with the brain through a central motor track. Dr. Chaddock says this connection is a reflection. But when the skull is fractured the brain is exposed, causing a reflection. Toes drawn upward and spread outward denote reflection and, primarily, the broken skull. Medical journals have written Dr. Chaddock to send them a detailed report of his discovery.

There are chords in the human heart—strange, varying strings—which are only struck by accident, and respond at last to the slightest casual touch.—Dickens.

THE BEST REMEDY

For Women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleville, Ont.—"I was so weak and worn out from a female weakness that I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took several bottles of it, and I gained strength so rapidly that it seemed to make a new woman of me. I can do as good a day's work as I ever did. I sincerely bless the day that I made up my mind to take your medicine for female weakness, and I am exceedingly grateful to you for your kind letters, as I certainly profited by them. I give you permission to publish this any time you wish."—Mrs. ALBERT WICKETT, Belleville, Ontario, Canada.

Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will cure female weakness and so successfully carry women through the Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs.

For 30 years it has been curing women from the worst forms of female ills—inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, and nervous prostration.

If you want special advice write for it to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

TRUE IRISH METHODIST.

The following item will be read with interest by Victorians, as it concerns the successor to the late Rev. W. I. Shaw, D.D., who was a delegate to the Methodist General Conference in this city last August:

The appointment of Rev. James Smyth, B.A., LL.D., of Belfast, to the principalship of the Wesleyan College, Montreal, adds a force of rare spiritual power to Methodism in Canada. Thirty-six years old, he has crowded into that period work of a compressed and composite nature. The secret of his power lies in his concentration which has exhibited itself in his preaching, always fresh, original and striking.

His brilliant degrees have been secured under unusual circumstances. Until the recent University Act was passed in Ireland there were only two universities there, the famous Trinity College, Dublin, and the Royal University. The latter possessed the distinction with London University of being merely an examining body. Attendance at lectures was not compulsory. It resulted in the possession of a degree coveted by men who devoted themselves to study during their spare hours. Even teachers, carpenters, artisans of all ages and ranks were amongst the workers. James Smyth took his B.A. and was ordained a clergyman of the Irish Methodist Conference at the age of twenty-eight. He then continued his studies, and, accepting a charge in the crowded industrial centre of the northern part of the Ulster metropolis, startled friends and rivals alike by taking first place in his Bachelor of Laws degree with honors and a scholarship of two hundred and twenty dollars in a period of study of eighteen months, and two years later he won the exacting degree of Doctor of Laws when little past this thirtieth year.

His scholastic feats may be realized more fully in view of the fact that he was a clergyman in a city church, and followed the university course without any aid whatever from tutors. Outside his lectures at the local theological college all his university training was followed alone and unaided.

The Rev. James Smyth is regarded as one of the ablest preachers in Irish Methodism to-day. A student of classic lore, his sermons are always illuminated with the past to the present, a type of historical narrative which drew large crowds to his church.

The student is writ large over the appearance of the new Wesleyan principal, whose frail form tells of the habitual shunning of slippered ease. Fair and boyish looking, with a pair of steely blue eyes and mobile mouth, quick to run into plays of lively humor, the new principal is somewhat Scotch in reserve, but when known is a man to be respected and loved.

EMIGRATION FROM GREAT BRITAIN

Eighty Per Cent. of Emigrants Going to Different Parts of the Empire

London, June 10.—At the Imperial conference yesterday Premier Fisher moved for the reaffirmation of the resolution of 1907 pointing out the desirability of encouraging British emigrants to proceed to the British colonies rather than to foreign countries, and that the Imperial government be requested to co-operate with any colonies desiring emigrants in assisting suitable persons.

John Burns said that since the last conference the object of the resolution had been to a great extent secured. If the rate of increase of the first four months of 1911, were continued for the whole of 1911, the total emigration from Britain to all countries would amount to 300,000, of whom nearly 80 per cent. would go to different parts of the Empire. The conference would probably agree that this was as much as could reasonably be requested.

Premier Laurier said Mr. Burns' statement appeared to him quite satisfactory. The resolution, slightly amended, was unanimously carried.

At the Imperial conference this resolution was passed: "In order to secure justice and protection for the wives and children who have been deserted by their legal guardians, either in the United Kingdom or in any of the Dominions, reciprocal legal provisions should be adopted in constituent parts of the Empire in the interest of such destitute and deserted persons."

MAY OPEN FAIR.

Winnipeg, June 10.—R. L. Borden, Conservative leader, will in all probability open the first Canadian Industrial Exhibition—the 21st at Winnipeg, but the first under the new name—Wednesday afternoon July 12.

WHEN HORSES GROW OLD.

Some horses never seem to grow old, but are able to perform much work up to the age of twenty-five years, declares a writer in the American Cultivator. With proper care and treatment the old horse is able to stand a great deal of work and for light work is worth just as much as a much younger animal. If offered for sale, of course the old horse will not bring a very large price.

But if horses are to be serviceable until a good old age they must receive the very best of care and treatment at all times. They must not be neglected at any time, whether working or idle.

The old horse does not always get proper attention in regard to feed. He cannot masticate some kinds of food, especially corn, thoroughly, nor can he eat his ration in as short a time as can a young animal whose teeth are sound. So unless some ground grain is provided for him and he is given sufficient time to eat his meals when being worked, he will fail to get the full benefit of his food and in a short time will begin to lose flesh and strength.

When the horse begins to grow old give him just as good care as you did when he was young, and he will more than pay for his feed and care by the work which he can perform.

IN LONG SERVICE WITHOUT PARALLEL

Inspector-General of Chinese Customs Retires After 48 Years

The Peking correspondent of the London Times writes that Sir Robert Hart has decided to tender his resignation as inspector-general of the Chinese Imperial maritime customs to the Chinese government. The Times says Sir Robert's decision can cause no surprise, for he has long earned his repose. He is 76 years of age, and he has passed forty-eight of those years in the Chinese service. Even were his health still robust, he might fairly claim at his time of life to be relieved from the heavy burden he has so long borne. The anxieties and the responsibilities he has undergone have been of a character to break down the strongest constitution, and it must be remembered that he has been obliged to endure them in conditions unfavorable to the physical and mental exertions of Europeans.

Sir Robert Hart has lived a life for which we know no parallel. It is, of course, nothing new for Europeans to serve Oriental governments, and to serve them with distinction. But the Europeans who have held office under such governments have seldom, if ever, succeeded in profoundly modifying the administration of the states in which they lived. It is the unique distinction of Sir Robert Hart that he has accomplished this feat in the oldest and, in some respects, the most conservative Empire upon earth. He has grafted on to the unwieldy and corrupt system of Chinese administration a department which is a model of efficiency and of probity. His success was astonishing. He had little but his personal character to support him in his early efforts to establish the new department, and he has had great difficulties to encounter, from without as well as from within. It is not a little to the credit of the Chinese government, as well as to the honor of Sir Robert Hart, that he won, and for many years enjoyed, so large a measure of their confidence. From the beginning of his career he convinced them that they could trust him, and the trust they placed in him was the condition and the secret of his success. The returns of the customs were, indeed, a palpable proof of his skill and of his honesty, but probably it would have been thrown away upon the Chinese but for the personality of the inspector-general. He had in a very exceptional degree the rare gifts of insight into the minds of an Oriental people, and of real sympathy with all that is best in their ideals and in their modes of thought. The Chinese not only consulted him and acted upon his counsels in matters of the deepest moment to the Empire, but they even allowed him to represent them in the negotiation of important diplomatic agreements. He abundantly deserved their confidence in him, and very faithfully guarded their interests, even when those interests differed widely from those of his own countrymen. The fact that his countrymen, and indeed other Europeans as well, looked to him to protect their rights and privileges immensely increased the difficulties of his position. So entirely did our own foreign office misapprehend what the situation was, that in 1885 they actually offered to make him our minister plenipotentiary at Pekin. He did what he could for his European clients, no doubt, so long as he had not to do anything which conflicted with what he deemed to be his superior obligations to China, or with the very insistent demands of his Chinese employers. But the fascination which China exercised over him and the degree of his complaisance with Chinese prejudices were shown by his apologies for the dynasty and his palliations of the action of the Boxers, written within a week after the relief of the Pekin legations—five years after the offer of the British foreign office.

In his retirement Sir Robert Hart will have many grounds for satisfaction. Whatever may be the future of the great department which he formed, it still retains its high repute, the curious and characteristically Chinese intrigue to set up the Shui-wu-chu, or office of controllers-general of the customs against it—an intrigue which owed its initial success to the weakness of Sir Robert, and, it must be added, of the British government in 1906—appears to have failed for the present. Since the resignation of Sir Robert Bredon from that board a year ago not much has been heard of its activities, and we earnestly trust that the British government have taken effectual means to prevent their revival. The Imperial marine customs have been left free from serious molestation to carry on the beneficial operations which Sir Robert Hart taught them to conduct. The Chinese government have paid a well-deserved compliment to the judgment of their old inspector-general by choosing as his successor the man whom he had recommended to them for the post. Mr. Agien, upon whom the choice has fallen, has acted as officiating inspector-general for the last year, and our Pekin correspondent bears witness to the ability and thoroughness with which he has discharged its duties. He has already effected many long-needed reforms, and he has already satisfied the service and outside observers alike that he is just and impartial in the exercise of his extensive patronage. He is thoroughly familiar with the needs of the service, he has an excellent assistant in the chief secretary, Mr. Bowra, and he enjoys not only the consideration but the respect of the Shui-wu-chu. The interests in the care of the Imperial maritime customs are immense. They are safe, we are confident, in the hands of the man whom Sir Robert Hart bequeaths to China as his successor.

In the last 350 years 1,500,000 unfortunates have been condemned to exile in Siberia by the Russian government.

RAGING HEADACHE STOPPED AT ONCE

When He Took "Fruit-a-tives"

Shanly, Ont., Sept. 23, 1910.

"You certainly have the Greatest discovered Headache Cure in the world. Before 'Fruit-a-tives' came before the public, I suffered tortures from Headaches caused by Stomach Disorders.

"One of your travellers called on me when I had one of my raging headaches and had my head almost raw from external applications.

"I hated to see any person coming into the store (much less a commercial traveller) and I told him very curtly that I had a headache but he insisted on my trying "Fruit-a-tives."

"And so, with what I would call amazing results. They completely cured me and since then (nearly six years ago) it is only necessary for me to take one occasionally to preserve me in my present good health. I was 65 years old yesterday and have been a general store keeper at the above address for twenty-five years."

WM. PITT

As Mr. Pitt says "Fruit-a-tives" is the greatest headache cure in the world.

Dealers everywhere have "Fruit-a-tives" at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50 or trial size, 25c. or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

MILLIONAIRE CHARACTERISTICS.

Russian Made Fortunes by Manipulating Natural Resources.

Two notable figures in the great business world of Russia have just died, Nicholas Boukhroff, the "grain king," who died at Nijni-Novgorod, and Alexander Mantashoff, who made his fortune in the home market for naphtha and died here in St. Petersburg. Each left an estate of more than 40,000,000 rubles.

Mantashoff's personality is connected in a curious way with a recent phase of the internal history of Russia. In 1905 he paid a large sum to be escorted by Russian cavalry, reinforced by Maxim guns, from Tiflis to the Austrian frontier on his way to Paris, where he lived until two years ago. His reason for leaving Russia was that during the revolution in the Caucasus he was too good a prize to be let alone.

Terrorists and brigands offered him their protection at a price conveyed in blackmailing letters. For a month or two he paid; but when within ten days he found that he had handed out 90,000 rubles to nearly a score of organizations he decided that he could live cheaper and calmer abroad, provided he could get there.

He owed the making of his fortune to luck and daring. His father was an Armenian storekeeper at Baku. Young Alexander bought an unpromising naptha claim and by pluck and persistence turned it into a probable producer. Then he grew rich not in days but in hours, as they say. Until his death he was on the council of the most prosperous of the Russian commercial and industrial banks, the Azoff-Don Bank.

He was very generous to Armenian institutions. Over fifty bursaries or scholarships were founded by him to enable young Armenians to go through the university course. When in Paris he furnished the money for building the beautiful Armenian church there, and the chief Armenian theatre in Russia, at Tiflis, is a present from him. He was a keen amateur of the drama, and until his final illness used to see all the new plays in St. Petersburg.

Of entirely different stamp was the other man of millions, Nicholas Boukhroff. In his externals he was a mujik merchant. He wore the top boots, the trader's kaftan—coat and overcoat in one, fitting close up to the neck and reaching to the knees—and the embroidered cotton shirt without garb of the Volga traders, men who carry as much as 50,000 rubles in notes stuck in the leg of a boot and who distrust the documentary machinery of credit. Boukhroff's great fortune compelled him to handle investments and bank paper, but he was in sympathy with the old simple ways. He was in fact an Old Believer and a devout church-goes who lived his religion.

In his housekeeping he lived on much the same scale as an ordinary hand worker in comfortable employment. He gave away millions of rubles in charity, but was close-fisted in personal outlays. The porters at Nijni-Novgorod and elsewhere avoided him when they saw him step from a train. He would never pay them more than 10 cents for carrying his baggage. When he met great personages he "thoued" them, as he did everybody else, keeping to the Old Believer, Quakerlike form of address. His integrity in business was of the highest.

He would lecture men in his employment if they spent five kopals needlessly. His patriarchial ways had sometimes a welcome side. He exacted unquestioning obedience to his instructions; but every now and then a man who had served him well for some years would receive a draft for 25,000 or 50,000 rubles with no further remark than:

"Thou shalt now be Man, too. I know that thou wilt make good use of the money."

In the Rhine vineyards one of the methods of protecting vines against frosts in May is to put paper bags around them overnight.

Half or Quarter Acre Lots on the Fairfield Road Car Line

$2000 Per Half Acre

This beautiful property is very well shaded by spruce and poplars, and while some of them would have to be removed for building purposes, it would still leave sites for most attractive homes. This property is directly north of Hollywood Park, and is of course within a few minutes' walk of Foul Bay's beautiful sandy beach. Much of this property faces the Fairfield road car line, but the lots at the rear face Chandler avenue. This property is directly south of the large field, lying between Rockland avenue and Chandler street, which, when subdivided, will easily bring $1,000 to $1,500 per lot or $6,000 to $9,000 per acre. The property we are offering is just across the street and the above prices speak for themselves.

An auto will take you out to inspect the property at any time you may appoint.

LABOR FIGURE ON LITERARY STAGE

Rise and Progress of John Burns From Proletariat to Right Honorable

The epic of English labor is not yet written. No English poet has done for the English toiler what Edward Markham did for the American in "The Man with the Hoe." The Labor party has produced many pamphlets, but no literature.

Yet the first step towards the building up of real proletarian literature has been taken by Joseph Burgess, an Independent Labor party lecturer, who, in a book entitled, "John Burns, the Rise and Progress of a Right Honorable," but the figure of the president of the local government board upon the literary stage — pushes him on, in fact, with a good deal of forceful and hostile criticism.

"Honest John," as he is called, takes as much notice of hard words as a duck of a thunder shower. One of the makers of modern English, he doesn't forget the days when he labored as a skilled artisan in an engineer's shop. To see him talking with his fellow cabinet ministers in the smoking room of the National Liberal Club, or smilingly conducting parties of trans-Atlantic women around the House of Commons, is to get a view of tho man which is gall and wormwood to his former is to get a view of the man which is the author of this biography. For Burns has arrived at the responsibility of a great official position, and it is now war to the knife between him and the political extremists with whom he formerly associated.

Social historians of the last thirty years and novelists of the new sociological school adorned by H. G. Wells and Arnold Bennett are turning to this volume with zest. For its pages are actual transcripts from life, raw material to be worked up into by future imaginative writer, as well as material for more finished writers than Mr. Burgess.

The book proper traces the rise of the Labor party, and incidentally affords early impressions of the man who made that party. In 1886 the author visited Burns at his Battersea home, when he displayed his library with infinite pride.

"What do you think of that?" he cried. "Is it not a credit to a workingman? Yet it is only the merest skeleton of what it will be made if I have luck. Do you know what is almost the dearest wish of my heart?"

"To have a good library," Burgess suggested.

"No," said Burns, "not so much to have a good library, with the accent on the have," as to make a complete collection of all books, pamphlets, newspapers, and so on dealing with the Labor and Socialist movement, and when I die to leave a John Burns collection to the Battersea free library. I want the generations that come after me to be able to trace step by step the path I had to tread to win the position it is certain I shall some day assume."

Burns is still a devout booklover, and is so devoted to his library that when some little time ago he changed houses, he would allow no one but himself to transfer the books from his old study to the new. But his library has developed far beyond the limited scope set for it in the days of this insurgency.

During the time of parliamentary struggle John Burns often rubbed shoulders with men of historic note. The story is told of a meeting between him and Gladstone in the House of Comons. One thing said by each is worth preserving. "Hard work," said Mr. Burns, "makes work, and makes one love it." To which sentiment, so much after his own heart, the Grand Old Man replied, "May you live for many, many years, Mr. Burns, to put that principle into practice."

The Labor party is not getting quite as much satisfaction as it expected out of the book, however, for it has troubles of its own in the shape of an impending book by a prominent Labor leader on the inner workings of the party — its jealousies, intrigues, and cliques. Many appeals have been made to him to supress the book, but he declines, and much piquant matter will come to light, though the book will be issued anonymously.

And as to John Burns, his time is coming, for he intends to issue an autobiography later on, when ministerial cares no longer beset him. From the time of the dock strike, the Trafalgar Square riots, and the first L.C.C. to now, he has never ceased to keep a diary and commonplace book and has recorded his opinion of men and doings, and jotted down all sorts of remarks made to him in conversation. So when he does get busy with a pen, he will probably put together a volume or two which may be more pleasing to the public generally than to his old comrades.

RED FLAGS AT PRINCE RUPERT

FLYING STONES HIT M'INNES AND CASEY

"Which is Which," 13 in Number Charged With Unlawful Assembling and Rioting

Saying that things in the Prince Rupert strike riots last April got so busy after the start of the 6th of April disturbance that he could not tell distinctly what was happening, while rocks were flying in different directions from a mob of 400 men, Contractor Angus Dan McInnis, a man of heavy muscular build, was the first witness for the prosecution of Dan Babich and twelve others which opened in the Assize court this morning.

Contractor McInnis, owing to the whirl of events around the cut at the time, was able to identify only one of the men, but said there were 300 more who ought to be with the accused. They all looked alike to him, he said, but he knew the one accused, Sevich, and had seen him throw a rock when the disturbance started, but then things got so busy and he was so occupied that he could not positively identify the others.

A mob of several hundred men, running and shouting, and waving red banners, first attracted the attention of William A. Casey, civil engineer, who, when he arrived at the scene, saw Babich with a sad look on his face, but putting considerable energy into throwing rocks down the cut where men were working. Mr. Casey said it was the sad look on Babich's face that fixed him in the witness' memory, because he was astonished that Babich did not show more enthusiasm in his looks. Men in the cut were rubbing their backs and arms when he looked down, apparently to relieve the pain caused by the rocks.

Mr. Williams, in cross-examination, asserted that Mr. Casey had heard "cheers," but Mr. Casey stood by "shouting and yelling" as his definition. He did not deny that he himself threw stones, readily admitting his eagerness to get right in and be busy, but his action was against the mob.

"In fact," he said, "his Casey blood scented the fight."

The thirteen men are: Ran Babich, Nick Vesovich, Steve Brudo, Mike Secovich, Dan Mulovich, Nick Radalovich, Antone Sevich, Mike Burich, Noah Palovich, Chris Woods, B. Sandraluvich, Juro Radulovich and Mike Savich, and are charged that, "together with other divers evil-disposed persons, they unlawfully assembled and did then and there make a great noise, disturb the peace tumultuously and did otherwise offend against the peace of His Majesty the King," etc., etc. The charge having been read and translated (the interpreter coming to a sudden halt at "tumultuously"), the accused all pleaded "not guilty."

J. A. Aikman appeared for the crown and W. T. Williams, Prince Rupert, for all the accused.

A feature of the proceedings is the ability of the solicitor, W. T. Williams, to call off the names of the different "itches," in rapid-fire order, similar to a first prize-winner in a "she sells sea shells on the sea shore" competition.

Mr. Williams moved to have the charges separated and asked that seven be tried first, because witnesses for the remainder are not here, and an effort is now being made at Prince Rupert to raise funds for their transportation to Victoria.

Mr. Aikman said the case was one of identity and a separation of the charges would not serve to the advantage of either side.

Mr. Justice Murphy decided that the matter was out of his charge.

The court was cleared of all witnesses and as a consequence a large crowd of men moved out, leaving the court practically empty.

The jury selected consists of: Charles Holmes, (foreman), Joseph Phillips, John W. Elliott, Robt. Peden, Percy Tribe, Donald Charles McDowall, Edward Harrington, William J. Rennie, Geo. A. Okell, Antoine Michaelis, Albert S. Shields and George Ferris.

The other members of the petit jury were released from attendance until Tuesday morning at 10.15 o'clock.

Mr. Justice Murphy informed the jury that a man assembled with a mob would, even if he did not throw stones, be guilty of unlawful assembly. Mr. Williams differed with the judge and Mr. Justice Murphy said he could appeal, and if that was not the law now, it should be made so, and, at any rate, it would be his law during the trial.

Special Constable Jno. W. Morrison identified Dan Milovich, Mike Serovich, Antone Sevich, Jura Rudulovich, Steve Brudo and B. Sandraluvich, and testified they had thrown stones. He had not seen the first named accused wave the rioters back and had not taken his gun from his pocket during the disturbance.

The witness Morrison chewed gum the whole time he was in the witness-box and was careless in giving answers till, when requested to speak louder, a juryman asked that Morrison be told to take the gum out of his mouth.

Mr. Justice Murphy—Take that gum out of your mouth.

The witness obeyed with startling rapidity.

Special constable McArthur told of events he saw at the riot and had identified Mike Burich as one of the mob who bore a red flag bearing the words, "be a man, don't scab." He also identified Dan Mulovich, and Mike Secovich, who struck him on the shoulder with a rock, the blow causing witness an injury which kept him from work a month. He identified the accused Sevich and Brudo.

The court adjourned until Monday morning at 10.15 o'clock.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fields and Miss Ruth Fields left Friday afternoon for a month's vacation at Bella Coola, Prince Rupert and other northern points.

EARTH CAVES IN; TWO MEN KILLED

TRAGIC AFFAIR AT BAKER'S BRICKYARD

Men Were Working Late When the Earth Caved in and Smothered Them

Baker's brickyard, Douglas street, was last night the scene of a tragedy involving the death of two Chinamen named Sing and Que. They were engaged in falling clay when the earth caved in, precipitating them downwards and burying them in the clay as they fell. Another Chinaman, who was in the vicinity at the time of the occurrence, raised the alarm and a rescue party was speedily on the spot excavating the fallen clay in an attempt to discover the missing bodies.

After some search the unconscious body of Que was discovered. He was still alive and was conveyed to the St. Joseph's hospital with all possible dispatch in the police patrol. A little later the body of Sing was also found but he was dead. Que succumbed at eight o'clock in the evening from the internal injuries which he had received in the fall. The cause of death in the case of Sing was suffocation. Both men were buried about eighteen feet in the clay when found.

How the accident happened remains a matter of mystery. Sing and Que were employed along with a gang of other Chinamen in the brickyards. The others stopped work at five o'clock but for some reason or other Sing and Que continued their task until an hour later, when the cave-in ended their work and their lives simultaneously. It is stated that both of the deceased were experienced in the work they were engaged upon and should have anticipated anything in the nature of the calamity that occurred. As already stated, however, it is not known whether the earth caved in or whether the falling clay overpowered them. The names Sing and Que are all that the company had by which to identify them.

Dr. Bapty will hold an inquest.

ALLEN PLAYERS SAY AU REVOIR TO-NIGHT

As "Mary Ann" in the familiar comedy, "Merely Mary Ann," Miss Verna Felton added to her local triumphs at the Victoria theatre last evening. The story of the play is an engaging one, though not novel, and holds the interest throughout. Its central character, a "slavey" in a London lodging house, who in the end becomes unbelievably wealthy through the death of a brother in America, offers abundant opportunity for comedy and emotional work. In it Miss Felton finds a highly congenial role and one in which the versatility of her dramatic talents are displayed to advantage. What a range her powers take is realized when one remembers that last week she was playing in "Resurrection" and "Magda." Her conception of the part, her portrayal of the many phases of Mary Ann's character and her reading of the lines are alike admirable. A thorough naturalness is a distinguishing characteristic of Miss Felton's work, combined with a rare power of insight. In the third act are the emotional episodes of the play, especially at its close, and in these Miss Felton showed a capacity for restraint which is greatly to be commended. Her work throughout was much appreciated by a good sized house, and during the evening she was the recipient of a lovely bouquet of carnations.

Mrs. Allen is the real thing in Cockney landladies as Mrs. Leadbetter and Miss Ella Houghton makes a sprightly Rosie. Miss Evelyn Green doubles as a music hall artist and a society lady. Irving Kennedy, Bert Hadley, Charles Connors, Richard Frazier and the other members of the cast all filled their roles most capably.

Charles Stokes, a Victoria boy, has two character parts, in both of which he does well. In the first act he is on the stage for a few minutes as an inebriated medical student, and in the last as a youthful scion of the English nobility. His work in the latter character was really very good.

There was a matinee this afternoon and to-night the company will close its present engagement, returning in the fall for a short time before beginning its regular Canadian tour. Its members will be welcome here at any time.

MEXICAN EARTHQUAKE.

Mexico City, June 10.—Service on the Manzanilla branch of the national railways in the states of Colima and Jalisco, which was interrupted by landslides caused by the recent earthquakes, was resumed to-day.

Telegraphic communication with the districts surrounding Colima volcano has also been restored. Fear that the railroad tunnels had been obstructed proved groundless.

The failure of news of widespread devastation to come through to the capital following the re-establishment of communication with the affected district is leading to the belief that the seriousness of the shocks had been greatly overestimated in some republics.

The list of known dead total a few more than 150, and it is quite possible this number may be augmented, but neither government officials nor local newspapers believe it will pass the 250 mark.

Telegrams from Zapotlan by way of Guadalajara indicate that 36 bodies have been recovered at that place in addition to 54 injured. The railroad station and 230 houses were destroyed.

DEATH OF CARRIE NATION.

Leavenworth, Kas., June 10.—Carrie Nation, the Kansas saloon smasher, died here last night at 7:05.

Paresis was the cause of death. Mrs. Nation had been in poor health for months, and on January 27, hoping to recover from a nervous breakdown, she entered the local sanatorium, in which she died.

At Wardbury, Norway, the longest day lasts from May 21 to July 22 without interruption.

UNION LABOR ON FAIR BUILDING

Vancouver Carpenters Will Complete Structure Free of Charge

Vancouver, June 10.—The Made-in-Canada Fair Building on Beattie street, just east of the Drill hall and facing the Cambie street grounds, will be finished by union labor, according to an announcement made last night to the management of the fair by the executive of the building trades. It is estimated that the work remaining to be done on the interior of the building will take the time of about twenty carpenters for two days. The union executive has generously determined to do the work free of charge and it is stated that the building will be finished by Tuesday night and everything will be in readiness for the opening next Wednesday morning.

In return for undertaking the work the executive of the building trades' unions last night proposed to the fair management that as the proceeds of the fair are to be devoted to the erection of a convalescent home it would only be fair that this home be built exclusively by union labor. The management of the fair agreed to recommend to the King's Daughters, the organization which will erect the home, that only union labor be employed on construction.

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE.

Bellingham, Wash., June 10.—Hurled far from the machine in which they were riding after being struck by a locomative, C. R. Simpson and C. H. Jordan of this city, narrowly escaped with their lives last night at the crossing of the Everson Goshen road. A B.B. & B.C. train struck the automobile in which they were riding and the car was cut squarely in two, a portion being left on either side of the track. Two men escaped without so much as a scratch.

—There was a goodly gathering of the scholars of St. John's Sunday school, as well as parents and friends, in the schoolroom, Herald street, last night. The room was ablaze with broom, with which it had been very tastefully decorated. There was a short programme, musical and literary, refreshments were served and games were engaged in by the children. The evening was voted a most enjoyable one by all present, and will result in the further strengthening of the work of the Sunday school.

HARRY JOBES IS COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

Will Remain in Jail at New Westminster Until Assizes in October

New Westminster, June 1 in the city police court this mornin Henry Jobes was committed for trial on a charge of shooting his wife in New Westminster a week ago to-day. Jobes made no statement in the preliminary hearing, which was held before Magistrate Edmonds. While in court he sat in a crouching position in the prisoner's box with his head buried in his hands.

Last night, however, Jobes told Officer Johnson that he was guilty of the murder of his wife. He also informed the officer that he spent last Sunday and Monday in Vancouver, and was in Westminster Junction on Tuesday. On Wednesday he went to Blaine and then returned to the Fraser river and stayed at the St. Mungo cannery until he gave himself up. He will remain in jail until the assizes in October.

WE HAVE BARGAINS THAT ARE RECOGNIZED ON SIGHT

Yes, these are the only real bargains that you should spend your money on. The kind that read reduced from $20 to $5 are poor bargains, that cannot be recognized on seeing the articles. You have horse sense, so there is no need for you to be a donkey. It is absolute foolishness to try and convince sensible people that the price of an article one day is $20 and the next day reduced to $5. To begin with if the article cost $5 in the first place, the profit at the first price would be $15, and you know just as well as we do that no storekeeper is going to sell anything for less than he paid for it. We would like to go into this question of bargains with you, but would much rather discuss it when you call. WE HAVE BARGAINS THAT ARE RECOGNIZED ON SIGHT, and they are the kind to pay attention to, and it will pay you to keep in touch with this store. There is always something doing here.

After a thorough investigation of various brands of paints Martin-Senour proved to be the paint we could risk our reputation on.

Martin-Senour 100% Pure Paint

which we guarantee to be Pure White Lead, Pure Oxide of Zinc, and Pure Linseed Oil, with of course the necessary coloring ingredients and dryers. Now to be entirely truthful, they do make a few dark shades that cannot be produced from lead and zinc. Come in the store and we will show them to you—but every other color is positively and absolutely 100 per cent Pure Paint, and not a drop of adulteration or substitution is mixed in.

We recommend this excellent brand to all our friends and customers. Another good point is that two gallons of this paint covers as much space as three gallons of the filled paints.

MILO VUCKOVITCH FOUND NOT GUILTY

ASSAULT IS DENIED BY SEVERAL WITNESSES

Evidence of Crown Fails in First Prince Rupert Strike Riot Prosecution

Milo Vuckovitch, a Montenegrin, was found not guilty of shooting with intent to kill Sergt. of Provincial Police Albert J. Phillipson, at Prince Rupert on April 6 last, by an assize court jury which returned a verdict yesterday evening after an absence of about an hour. The indictment carried three counts, the second being intent to do grievous bodily harm, and the third, carrying a dangerous weapon.

The prosecuting police sergeant failed to prove his case on either count and there was a great diversity of evidence. The prosecution had the sergeant and a constable, who claimed the accused had fired the shot which the sergeant alleged hit him on the forehead, while the defence filed into court a long chain of Montenegrin witnesses, and one Scotchman, who told stories altogether at variance with the prosecution.

The defence showed that the police had caught hold of the prisoner, dashed him to the ground, and that when he arose his face was covered with blood. Police officers had then taken the accused down town. The witness Morrison, for the prosecution, had in his evidence sworn that he saw accused fire the shot which is alleged to have hit the police sergeant, and that he never took his eyes off the accused until he arrested him at a hotel in the town after having followed him several blocks.

A witness for the defence said no shooting had occurred before the constable took the accused, and he pointed out Morrison as one of the men who had arrested the accused in the cut where the trouble was. He saw the accused taken down town to an hotel. Other foreign witnesses supported the story.

George Turner threw a considerable amount of light on the assault by swearing that the accused was not concerned in the assault of the officer at all. He was standing close by and had seen a man pick up a rock and hit the officer on the forehead with it, the stone scarce leaving the man's hand. Phillipson fell to the ground, got up again, and drew his gun. Other police ran up and shooting commenced.

He had been an observer of the whole affair and was in the mob for the purpose of seeing what went on. He did not tell the police what he knew, but ten days ago, while on the street in Prince Rupert, a man got into conversation with him whom he discovered later was an officer of the labor organization known as the I. W. W. This man told witness the defence would be unable to get an important witness, and witness then offered to come to Victoria and give evidence, telling the I. W. W. man what he knew of the matter. He was not a union man. In cross-examination he said he had seen a storekeeper named Lynch fire the first shot, and that the only other guns he saw were in the hands of the police.

The accused took the witness stand and said he went with the procession through the town, and eventually reached the cut. The men did not want trouble but intended to ask the workmen there to join the union. He was met by a policeman who threw him on the ground. He pointed out the prosecution witness Morrison as the man. He got up, and a big moustached man hit him with a rock. He was bleeding and was taken to the Central hotel. He returned to the scene for his hat and went back to the Europe hotel, where he was arrested. Four witnesses were called in rebuttal.

Mr. Justice Murphy told the jury that the case amounted to a question of veracity. If they thought the evidence conclusive they should convict, but if the prosecution had not been conclusive in its case the accused should have the benefit of the doubt. The jury should not allow racial prejudice to interfere with their verdict, and should accord the accused the same consideration as if he were a resident of Victoria.
